affects nursing infants

BOSTON, Aug 18, (AP): Nursing mothers who drink may pass on enough alcohol to slightly retard their children's physical development, according to a study published in yesterday's New England Journal of Doctors routinely caution women to avoid alcohol during pregnancy because of the potentially dangerous effects drinking can have on foetuses. The results of the new study raise the pos-sibility abstinence should be extended into early childhood if babies are breast fed.

Tests showed that babies of nursing women who had one or more drinks a day "are a little slower to walk, to crawl and to have other motor skills," said Ruth É. Little, an epidemiologist at the University of Michigan. But she cautioned, "I would not worry about drinking during lactation until this finding has been confirmed in at least one more study."

Little and other researchers looked at more than 100 possible factors that could have explained the slower development. These included the women's age, intelligence and drug use during pregnancy. But only drinking while breast feeding was clearly associated with slower motor development

The study was based on tests on 400 infants who were born to members of a health maintenance organisation in Seattle.

"I think it's provocative, but the potential mechanism is very difficult to understand, since the actual alcohol - exposure experienced by these children is minimal," said Dr Robert Sokol, head of the Foetal Alcohol Research Centre at Wayne State

During pregnancy, alcohol consumed by the mother crosses the placenta and alcohol levels in foetus are similar to those in the bloodstream. However, after birth, only tiny amounts of alcohol get into

Alcohol Over-active immune systems may cause headaches

CHICAGO, Aug 18, (AP): Headache sufferers may be victims of over-active immune systems, and research into the weakened immunity of AIDS patients may shed light on the cause of headache pain, a researcher said on Wednesday.

But other experts in the field are sceptical of the research by Dr Lawrence Robbins, saying that the recurrent headaches afflicting up to five per cent of Americans have many

"Everything we know about headaches fits in with the hypothesis that the immune system is involved in some integral way," said Robbins, a neurologist in suburban Northbrook, Illinois who has studied the immunityheadache link.

"We know that people with lupus immune system, and they get many, many more migraines than other people," Robbins said. Lupus results when the immune system attacks the body's own connective tissues, causing symptoms ranging from a rash to joint pain

We know that steroids --- cortisone which decrease the immune system, help migraine headaches very much," Robbins said.

And now, he said, researchers are looking into whether acquired immune deficiency syndrome patients who have a history of migraine headaches get fewer headaches once their immune systems become depressed by the AIDS virus.

"The preliminary results appear to indicate that is happening," said Rob-bins, who has enlisted researchers in four studies of AIDS patients to begin documenting changes in headache patterns among their subjects. Robbins and two colleagues reported in May that they had analysed the blood of 75 headache patients including sufferers of migraines and of chronic tension headaches - and 32 other people. The researchers found that the headache patients had 30 fincent fewer immune system cells of a type known as suppressor cells, which slow the body's disease lighting

Suppressor cells work in combine tion with helper cells, which push the immune system along, he said

Heels: The agony of the feet

DAVIS, California, Aug 18, (AP): Spike heels weren't made for walking, according to a year-long study of high-heel shoes that indicates flat footwear may be healthier.

Becky Snow, who studied heel heights for a master's degree thesis in physical education and exercise science, found that pressure on the ball of a woman's foot increases dramatically with higher shoes.

Compared with going barefoot, a 0.75-inch (1.9 centimetre) heel increases the peak pressure 33 per cent, a 2-inch (5 centimeter) heel increases it 53 per cent and a 3.75 inch (8.25-centimeter) heel increases it 76 per cent, the University of California biomechanicist said. Moreover, high beels shorten the time the foot has to adjust to the higher pressures.

Laotian shoots wife, himself

STOCKTON, California, Aug 18, (AP): A man just out of jail for child abuse held his wife and eight children hostage for more than six hours, terrorising them by playing Russian roulette, before killing the woman and himself, police said.

years old, were safe after yesterday's standoff. The gunman, Dang Cha Xiong, a Laotian refugee, died about two hours later at a hospital. His wife's name was not immediately

A ninth child, a 12-year-old boy, had escaped from the apartment and alerted police that his father was holding the family hostage. He said Dang was play-ing Russian roulette with his hostages, sticking a bullet in the cylinder of his .38-caliber revolver and pulling the trigger at random, said Lt. Andy Jackson.

Co-operative Police spoke with Dang for several hours and he sounded cooperative, said Lucian Neely, deputy police chief. But after Dang said he would surrender and lay down his gun, police

Murder of gang rival

Girl in prison

LOS ANGELES, Aug 18, (AP): A 13-year-old girl was sentenced to 27 years to life in prison for gunning down a girlfriend who had switched gang affiliations. Wednesday's sentencing followed a night of gang bloodshed that left four people dead and four injured. Such violence, coupled with rampant drug dealing, prompted the city on Tuesday to create a $3 million programme to deploy large squads of police in gang-infested areas. The girl, whose name was withheld

Despite the heavy sentence, as a minor she can be imprisoned only until she is 25.

Under anaesthesia

NEW YORK, Aug 18, (UPI): A 19-month-old Soviet boy who underwent nine hours of surgery remained under anaesthesia yesterday so his brain could slowly expand to fill the space left by an orange-sized tumour.

Doctors at Montefiore Medical Centre planned to remove Kirill Podorozhansky from under sedation

"Kirill still remains in critical but stable condition and has been quite stable since the surgery," said Dr James Goodrich, chairman of Paediatric Neurosurgery at Montefiore.

Without the huge tumour that was pressing on his brain, the boy should soon be able to begin earing and growing normally, Goodrich said. The boy's head had swelled because of the tumour but his body remained the size of a 6-month-old baby.

Doctors decided to keep Kirill, who they called a "tough little fighter," sedated in the paediatric inten-sive care unit to allow the hole left by the tumour to fill with spinal fluid and the expanding brain.

Businesses breathing uneasily over smog plan

LOS ANGELES, Aug 18, (AP): Businesses are breathing uncasily as they face the daunting task of complying with an anti-smog strategy designed to clean up the nation's dirtiest air and transform the California lifestyle.

"The plan is so encompassing and so broad in its scope that we don't really know yet what the financial implications are as we go into the next century," said Robert Raskin of Owens-Brockway Corp., a glass bottle maker with California plants. The plan, adopted this week, aims to bring the southern California into compliance with federal laws by the year 2007, a process drawing interest from Japan and Europe as well as other US states. Proposals outlined in the plan would change the way companies do business, government agencies operate and how people live and play in Los Angeles and its environs. For example:

— Sales of barbecue starter fluid, a petroleum distillate that contributes to ozone, would be banned in favour of cleaner alternatives, such as electric charcoal starters and tins of jellied alcohol. - Dry cleaners would be required to use equipment that prevents fumes from perchloroethylene, a dry cleaning chemical that contributes to smog,

The moon blushed in much of the world and disappeared altogether in other parts during a rare full lunar eclipse that awed many sky watchers, although others were disappointed by clouds. Where the skies were clear, observers reported a spectacular celestial show of light and colour during the eclipse, which began about 0030 GMT on Thursday and was the first in 20 years that had the potential for viewing on five continents. If weather had permitted, the eclipse could have been in view of more than a billion people. The Earth-moon alignment put the eclipsing events in view of North and South America, Western Europe and Africa, and the Antarctic.

In the US capital, the moon rose as a golden grange, tinted grayish brown as the eclipse began, linen winked out altogether as the lunar disk swept into the dark inner core of the Earth's shadow.
In Britain, the eclipse started at 2:20 am and became total by 3:20 am. The moon blazed dark red, later turning a brighter orange-red Romanca was in the air on the Toronto waterfront, where Ann Abdel Bary El in New York, only the most faithful moonwatchers got to see the last hour of the eclipse early Thursday after skies cleared a little.

Overcast skies were reported over much of Scandinavia and most of France.

Show of Panama by US

PANAMA CITY. Aug 18, (UPI): US troops in Panama flexed their muscles yesterday in extensive manoeuvres in nine American military installations in Panama stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, authorities said.

In Washington, the Pentagon said the exercises by the US Southern Command were intended to test the readiness of American forces to respond quickly to protect US citizens and defend the Panama Canal and described them as the largest in more than a year.

The manoeuvres were carried out amid rising tensions between Washington and military strongman General Manuel Antonio Noriega, head of the Panama Defence Force and the country's

The southern command said US troops staged the operations "to test their quickness and efficiency .. in securing three important military areas.

US troops carried out operations at Howard Air Force Base, Fort Kobbe, Rodman Naval Station, Fort Clayton, Corozal Military Reservation and Albrook Air Force Station near the Pacific Coast as well as manoeuvres at Fort Davis and Fort Sherman along the Atlantic Coast.

US soldiers also commandeered southern command headquarters in Quarry Heights and the Gorgas US Army Hospital in Panama City. Under the 1977 Torrijos-Carter Panama Canal treaties, both US and Panamanian forces are responsible for protecting Gorgas Hospital, while the other military installations are under American ju. isdiction.

The United States has about 12,000 troops in Panama, 1,900 of them deployed in May by President Bush in response to growing tension between Noriega and the US government, which has indicted Noriega on drug-trafficking charges. Both former President Reagan and Bush have tried to get Noriega to step down from power.
US troops arrested 29 Panamanians last week in the city of Arraijan, on the western outskirts of Panama City, after they tried to block the path of five American tanks.

On Tuesday, US Marines secured the US embassy, climbing down rope ladders from seven Black Hawk helicopters in "rapid descent" exercises. The US Southern Command denied Panama's charges the Marines were trying to agitate the Panamanian Defence Forces, asserting that soldiers must train regularly to prepare themselves for any possible situation.

The lack of co-operation bet-ween US law enforcement agencies also was cited by Richard Gregorie, a former federal prosecutor in Miami, who obtained the drug-trafficking indictment against Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega.

Gregorie also suggested replacing all US currency in cir-

Design 'flaw' mars Trident test WASHINGTON, Aug 18. (AP): The US Navy is looking into a possible design miscalculation in its largest nuclear missile, the Trident 2, that may have caused the latest test failure of the weapon.

Rear Adm Kenneth C. Malley, chief of the Navy's Ballistic Missile Programme, said that despite computer simulations, engineers seriously underestimated the amount of pressure on the Trident as it thrusts upward after being launched from underwater.

The bomber's test flights are being watched closely by members of Congress who are critical of its high cost. At $530 million per plane, the B-2 is the most expensive airplane ever built. The Bush administration wants to buy 132 of the boomerang-shaped bombers at a total cost of about $70 billion.

The network said on Wednesday night the safety board is "fairly certain" to make the recommendation as a precaution against another explosive one failure such as the one that led to the July 19 crash of United Airlines Flight 232.

Ted Lopatkiewicz, an NTSB spokesman, said he could not confirm that a recommendation for increased and tougher inspections for DC-19 engines was being considered.

"We don't discuss anything that might be considered or discussed until the board votes on a recommendation," he said. Nothing in the records for the engine and the plane showed any problems or violations of maintenance regulations, the network reported.

Engines on two DC-10 passenger jets have suffered explosive failure in the past month.

Children of New Delhi prostitutes get a helping hand

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 18, (AP): The bedraggied, keen-eyed children on Gaston Bastion Road grow up fast.

By the time they are 3 or 4, they know what goes on in the dingy, mirror-lined apartments that are their homes by day and their mothers' brothels by night. Most are drawn into the fresh trade by their early teens because they find no alternative:

But now, some are finding a way out of the capital's best-known red-light district. Government foster homes, previously off-limits to prostitutes' children, are opening their doors. The women who work on G.R. Road say the new programme offers the

"If the children live with their mothers, there is no escape. They all get involved, said Nimmi Bai, the matrouly, betel-nutchewing madame of one of the 80 brothels on G.B. Road.

The boys pump for their mothers and sisters. The girls ... well, it depends how old

Last October, New Delhi's city government and a graying businessman put together the alternative. Prostitutes children now can be admitted to homes where they receive food, clothes and education up runs the homes. Khairati Lal Bhola, a 61year-old motor-parts dealer turned social worker, encourages prostitutes to enrol

"The major breakthrough was when I convinced the government they did not need the father's name for admitting the children," Bhola said. "Persuading the prostitutes was easy. They hate bringing up their children in a brothel. And they can visit their children once a month."

Earlier, schools denied admission to prostitutes' children because most of them didn't know who their fathers were. Admisrequire the name of the applicant's father.
"At least 75 children have been admitted to the homes," Bhola said. "It's only a beginning. There are 4,000 children in the brothels on G.B. Road. Few of the 3,500 prostitutes here use contraceptives

He said Nimmi Bai, who is 52, is one of two or three brothel keepers who

I know how horrible it can be. Life here is a bazaar," Nimmi Bai said, interrupting Bhola. "We are branded. Why should our children be?"

Nimmi Bai, who said she was in the profession" earlier, said that in the 1960s she paid a family 300 rupees a month - then worth about $40 — to raise her son and daughter away from the brothels on G.B. She said her children are now adults with respectable jobs, and she sometimes visits

But these informal adoptions often mean the children never see their mothers again, and there is no guarantee they will be treated well. Adopting families usually discourage visits and sometimes use the chil-dren as servants. Nimmi Bai said.

Bhola said the foster homes have another advantage. The prostitutes may be able to save the money they would have spent for their children's upbringing. The foster women really need money after they are no longer attractive."

Most prostitutes on G.B. Road earn 2 total of about 30 rupees ($1.80) from three or four clients each night, he said. Each client pays 25 rupees ($1.50), but he said the brothel owner, the pimp and the police take hefty cuts.

Prostitution itself is not illegal in India, but laws ban soliciting and "organised prostitution" where anyone except the prostitutes receives money. Nevertheless, organised prostitution exists openly. Bhola said it is prevalent in more than 800 cities

Pretoria detains defiant leader

JOHANNESBURG, Aug 18, (Agencies): Police opened fire today on black employees outside a pie factory where they had been locked out by management. At least 15 workers were injured. police and union officials said.

Police also arrested an organiser of anti-apartheid defiance campaign and banned a Cape Town raily called for Sunday by outlawed rights organisations.

Mohammed Valli Moosa, an official of the banned United Democratic Front and a leader of a new campaign to defy apartheid restrictions, was arrested at his Johannesburg office today and held there as security police searched his files.

Police ordered journalists from the building after the reporters saw Valli Moosa in custody and were told he was under

There was no immediate indication what charges might be filed against Valli Moosa, one of three activists who escaped from detention last year and took san-ctuary at the US consulate in Johannesburg.

Another escapee, Murphy Morobe, said Valli Moosa's arrest violated the government's promise that the three were free to leave the consulate without fear of being arrested again. "It shows how easy it is for the government to go back on its word," said Morobe, who called on the US government to condemn the arrest. The food and allied workers union said scores of workers assembled early today outside the Mama's pies factory on Johannesburg's southeastern outskirts, a day after the company locked them out because of a four-week-old wage dispute. The union said police used whips and live ammunition to disperse the workers and made several arrests. The union said 15 workers were injured, some seriously.

Capt. Reg Crewe, a spokes-man at police headquarters in Pretoria, said police acted only after workers began pulling on the locked factory gates and ignored an order to disperse. He said officers initially used whips, but fired shotguns when some fleeing workers threw stones.

He said four people were slightly injured by the shotgun fire and 15 others suffered minor injuries while being dispersed He said no one was arrested.

It was the second violent labour clash in two days.

On Thursday, police said at least 10 people were injured outside the British-owned Eveready plant in Port Elizabeth in clashes between striking workers and people recruited to fill their jobs.

Crewe, asked about the banned Cape Town rally, said he did not know if similar rallies planned for Sunday in other cities also would be banned.

Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu said the ban was "inflammatory and dangerous" and called for an alternative rally at his church in Cape Town.

The United Democratic Front, a nationwide coalition of activist organisations, and 16 other anti-partheid groups last year were ordered to halt all activities. They intended to declare themselves legal on Sun-day, the front's sixth anniversary. The South African delegation has been ordered to leave a world conference of mayors in Paris following pressure from antiapartheid campaigners, a senior delgate said today.

Union agreement to be rewritten

Soviets for radical change

MOSCOW, Aug 18, (Agencies): The Communist Party yesterday opened the way for radical political change through expanded powers for the 15 Soviet republics and a possible rewrite of the unification agreement that created the nation. The party also agreed to give the republics the power to question national laws before a strengthened high court, according to a draft nationalities policy published in Pravda.

That appeared to be a partial concession to Estonia. Latvia, and Lithuania, which have passed republic constitutional tents claiming the right to reject national laws. The Kremlin has said this violates the Soviet constitution. The party said that to achieve a transfortation of the Soviet federation, "the question has been raised of working out and signing a new union agreement instead of the treaty on the formation of the USSR of 1922."

That could be limited to the expanded powers for republics recommended by the party in yesterday's policy ement. Hut it also opens the pos sibility that radicals could push through a complete change in the structure of the nation.

Human rights activist Andrei Sak-harov has suggested a loose con-federation of sovereign states, and many nationalities in the Baltics and Georgia have called for secession from the Soviet Union.

"We don't want a new agreement," reacted Aigar Irgens, an editor at Atmoda, the newspaper of the Latvian Popular Front. "We want complete independence."

The draft also calls for a new law banning "nationalist and chauvinist organisations." Many of the more than 100 nationalities in the Soviet Union have formed groups to agitate for changes ranging from restoration of their native languages to secession. Such a law could be targeted against pro-secession groups such as the Party of National Independence in Georgia, Russian strikers protesting a new language law in Estonia, or the mass-membership Estonian Popular Front, which supported the language law.

"We have nationalist groups in Latvia, but the term is very broad," Irgens said. The effect of the party's proposed ban, he said, would depend on the definition of nationalist.

The proposal indicates the party still clearly favours a strong central government, despite its willingness to ransfer certain powers to the

A key line responds to the three Baltic republics "declarations of sovereignty" and their constitutional amendments claiming the right to reject national laws.

Communist Party policy states that the republics "can raise the question" of cancelling national laws that they believe exceed the authority of the central government. But it says the central government has the power to cancel unconstitutional laws passed in the republics.

The party suggests that such disputes be settled by the constitutional control commission, the nation's new quasi-supreme court.

On Wednesday, the national presidium declared the new Estonian election law unconstitutional, saying its residency requirements for voters violated the rights of Russians and others who have recently moved to the tiny republic, which is materially better off than most of the country.

The draft includes the promise to give to the republics all rights related to their status as sovereign socialist states," and says they are empowered to solve problems except in those areas they volunteer to the national government. The Soviet constitution is contradictory on this point, promising sovereignty to the republics but simultaneously claiming that national law is superior. The proposed policy continues some of that vagueness.

Politburo member Alexander Yakovlev confirmed the existence of a secret Soviet-Nazi pact, saying in a published interview today that it should be "unequivocally condem-

Russians suspend strike in Estonia

MOSCOW, Aug 18, (Reuter): Russian workers in the Soviet republic of Estonia began returning to work today after suspend-ing a strike against a new election law but they gave the authorities six weeks to meet some of their demands or face a bigger stop-

There was no indication the Estonian government was prepared to modify the law which has been denounced by the Kremlin and has angered the Russian minority by depriving recent immigrants into the Baltic republic of the right to vote.

Mikhail Lysenko, a spokesman for the strike committee. said workers in the capital, Tallinn, and elsewhere in Estonia had begun reporting for work after a decision taken at a latenight meeting yesterday. "Republican authorities did not actually give us guarantees that our demands would be met, but we nevertheless decided to believe them," Lysenko said. "But the strike will resume on a far larger scale if they do not come to any compromise with us by Oct 1", he added.

Up to 50 factories and other enterprises staffed by members of the Russian minority were hit by strikes called after the republic's Parliament passed the new election law on Aug 8. The law could disenfranchise several thousand members of the republic's Russian minority by setting a two-year minimum residence requirement to vote in local elections and five years for tho... standing for off...e. Estonian authorities see the law as an important part of a drive by the once-independent republic to win greater control of its own affairs and they plan to follow it with more controversial legislation creating Estonian citizenship. The praesidium of the Soviet Parliament, the Supreme Soviet. has denounced the law as being unconstitutional and given the Estonians until Oct 1 to revise it. Russians, most of whom moved to Estonia after it was incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1940, make up around one third of the republic's 1.5 million population.

But activists from the Eston-ian Popular Front, a radical organisation backing demands for more autonomy, say only a minority supported the strike and accuse the Kremlin of having encouraged the strikes.

Members of the Russian minority in the nearby republic of Lithuania have also threatened to strike over a law on Lithuanian citizenship which is expected to be passed by the republic's Parliament on Sept 5.

In a sign of growing nationalist feeling among ethnic Balts in Estonia, Lithuania and in neighbouring Latvia, popular front organisations expect 600,000 people or more to join a human chain linking all three republics next Wednesday.

US bases in Philippines to 'stay'

MANILA, Aug 18, (AP): US bases in the Philippines are so important to regional security that Congress will probably support any agreement to allow them to stay, a US lawmaker said yesterday. Congressman Dante Fascell, a member of the US Democratic Party, made the statement during a news

Im under questioning

SEOUL, Aug 18, (Reuter): Counter-espionage agents removed a radical South Korean student from her hospital bed early today and took her to a fortress-like building in Seoul for questioning about her illegal visit to the North, state radio said. The radio said the agency for National Security Planning (NSP) came before dawn to remove 21-year-old Im Su-Kyung, who crossed the northsouth border on Tuesday accompanied by a Roman Catholic priest, Moon Kyu-Hyon. Im, who staged a five-dayprotest hunger strike while in North Korea, had spent nearly three days at a Seoul University Hospital while doctors determined whether she was fit to withstand intensive interrogation by the NSP.

Doctors said she seemed tired and nervous, but healthy.

Im, a French language student, defied a Seoul government ban to attend a World Youth Festival in Pyongyang in July. She faces serious charges under the country's national security law, which bans unauthorised contact with the North.

Several prominent South Koreans, including dissident pastor Moon Ik-Hwan and opposition member of parliament Suh Kyung-Won. were formally charged earlier this year for making illegal trips to Pyongyang.

The two defied repeated warnings from Seoul and the US-led United Nations Command (UNC) guarding the area around Panmunjom that the crossing was a violation of the 1953 armistice agreement that ended the three-year Korean war.

A UNC public relations officer said it was possible a protest letter would be sent directly to Northern President Kim Il-Sung over the breach.

Suspect admits fourth murder

Kaifu urges probe

TOKYO, Aug 18, (AP): Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu today urged a full investigation into a series of child murders that has shocked Japan, and news reports said a suspect has now confessed to a fourth killing.

Tsutomu Miyazaki, a 26-year-old Tokyo print shop worker, has admitted under questioning to killing Masami Yoshizawa, said the Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK) and Asahi Shimbun newspaper, quoting unnamed police officials.

Miyazaki confessed he had kidnapped and murdered the 7-year-old girl, missing since last October from her home north of Tokyo, and "buried her in the mountains," Asahi Shimbun reported.

Police declined to comment on the reports. Miyazaki is under arrest for kidnapping and killing 5-year-old Ayako Nomoto. On Sunday, two days after his arrest, he also confessed to the kidnap and killing of two 4-year-old girls, Mari Konno and Erika Namba, police said.

The cases also have drawn attention to the many animated films available in Japan that show violence and scenes of undressed girls and comic books involving crime. The suspect, Tsutomu Miyazaki, said he collected them.

Kaifu urges political reforms

TOKYO, Ang 18, (Renter): In one of his first moves towards promised political reform, Japan Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu asked his cabinet today to quit the ruling party factions blamed for wielding too much behind-the-

Political analysts said the move was unlikely to satisfy opposition demands for meaningful reform of Japan's scandal-plagued politics.

A spokesman for the prime minister's office quoted Kaifu as say-ing: "Cabinet members must leave their own factions during their term of office and watch their own words so as not to be misunderstood as endorsing faction-level

In voting on July 23, the party lost its majority in the upper ho of parliament for the first time since its formation in 1955.

Public opinion polls showed voters were unhappy with the Recruit influence-peddling scandal, an unpopular sales tax and government policies to open farm trade to imports.

Power struggle continues

BELITNG, Aug 18, (Agencies): The Defence Ministry today denied a report that China's defence minister was detained in a military power struggle, but the military's official newspaper acknowledged political conflict within the army and urged tighter political discipline.

Western diplomats said the reports reflected continuing tension after military commanders split over the crackdown on the democracy movement in June and the use of lethal force against the demonstrators and the citizens of Beijing.

The Liberation Army Daily, the People's Liberation Army newspaper, said in a commen-tary that fighting "bourgeois liberalisation," a catchphrase for Western political ideas, should be a "major topic for political and thought work in the army."

An official of the Ministry of National Defence, reached by telephone, characterised as "a rumour" a Western news agency report yesterday from Hong Kong saying that Defence Minister Qin Jiwei had been detained by troops loyal to President Yang Shangkun. The report said the incident

Qin and some senior military commanders are believed to have opposed the decision to open fire on unarmed demonstrators in Beijing, where martial law was declared May 20.

The army swept into the city June 3, killing hundreds and possibly thousands of people in the assault and the citywide uprising that followed.

Yang was ranked third behind Zhao on the military commission but wields control over the army through family and personal connections.

Western diplomats, including a military attache who has recently been in contact with Chinese military officials, said continuing tension exists in the PLA and that some commanders may be purged despite a recent public effort to display unity.

In other developments, a Chinese government spokesman confirmed in an interview published yesterday that Wang Dan, a leader of the democracy movement and one of the country's most wanted fugitives, had been arrested. State council spokesman GRENOBLE, France, Aug 18. (Agencies): Outraged Muslims were suspected to have set fires at a town hall and a gymnasium yesterday in retaliation for the demolition of a mosque in a disused factory, police said.

Workers from the Deschanoz Demolition Company set off a storm in Charvieu Chavagneux, a town of some 8,000 people in the eastern region of Isere, when they bulldozed the makeshift Muslim prayer centre in a wing of the factory at dawn Wednesday. One Muslim was injured during the

Some reports said about five Muslims were asleep in the mosque when the bulldozer moved in. Another report said the imam of the mosque. Mohammed Mezgeuldi, was leading a dozen faithful in morning prayers at the time.

The demolition team said they destroyed the mosque accidentally and that they had intended to demolish another, condemned wing of the plant.

But Muslim leaders charged this was the latest in a series of racially motivated incidents. The conservative mayor of the town, Gerard Dezempte recently refused permission for a new mosque to be built in the area, saying it would attract more immigrants. In 1988, 22 per cent of the population of the Charvieu were foreign immigrants.

As many as 25 per cent of the population voted for right-wing extremist Jean-Marie le Pen's antiimmigration National Front in recent elections. Angry Muslims Wednesday afternoon set fire to the bulldozer that destroyed the prayer centre. Other mysterious fires started in the early hours yesterday, gutting the town hall and gymnasium. Police said they suspected Muslim militants were responsible for the arson attacks.

Kabul blames US

KABUL, Aug 18, (Agencies): Afghanistan accused the United States yesterday of supplying rockets that explode in mid-air and shower down warheads that detonate on the ground.

"It is a long-range, US-type missile and it's very strong and it can destroy very vast areas." Foreign Ministry spokesman Mohammad Nabi Amani said. "You can see the US markings."

The United States has said it is providing the rebels with new weapons to counter what it says are shipments of new Soviet weapons to Afghanistan. Published reports say these include US-designed cluster bombs and Spanish-made 120mm mortars that can crater airport runways.

The rebels, who call themselves mujahedeen, are trying to topple the Soviet-backed Kabul government with support mainly from the United States, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia.

Amani also said the rebels fired 53 missiles, including the new US rockets, at Kabul on Tuesday night and early on Wednesday. One of the new rockets killed five civilians and injured 23 others overnight in the former Soviet-occupied Mikrorayan housing complex near Kabul airport, now home to many government workers.

The sources added that the Moroccan customs agents were approaching the Spanish craft, registered in the southeastern Mediterranean port of Alicante, when they opened fire.

Palestinian call for boycott ignored

EREZ CHECKPOINT, Gaza Strip, Aug 18, (Agencies): Both Israelis and Palestinians claimed victory today as the army imposed tough restrictions on Arabs travelling from the occupied Gaza Strip to Israel. Israeli authorities said about 6,000 people crossed into Israel, ignor-ing a call by underground Palestinian leaders to boycott work in Israel to protest against new plastic identification cards men must have to But Palestinians estimated a maximum of 1,000 people crossed. They said there were far fewer cars than normal entering Israel and that most carried no passengers Saber Abu Sabaan, a 40-year-old father of 10 children, said he had been working in Israel for years but refused to get the new card, only to see it taken away by uprising activists. "I was trying to work, but feeding my kids does not mean I love Israel," he said.

Israeli officials say the card system is intended to prevent those with criminal or security records from entering Israel foliowing a series of attacks on Jews

Palestinians argue the system is a further attempt by Israel to quell the revolt against occupation by putting an economic squeeze on Gaza, where poverty is widespread and few jobs are available. Army Radio depicted the flow of workers out of the strip, home to 650,000 people, as a defeat for the 20-month-old Palestinian uprising against Israeli rule in Gaza and the occupied West Bank.

Both sides agreed activists of the uprising had tried to stop workers from leaving.

The Israeli Army said troops arrested three masked Gaza youths suspected of trying to block Arab workers from traveliing to jobs in Israel. Leaders of the revolt in Gaza had called for an indefinite boycott of work in Israel. West Bankers employed in Israel were told to stop work for one week in solidarity but many appeared to ignore the call. Police said, meanwhile, that two ultra-orthodox Jews, one an American and the other a Swiss, were arrested at Ben Gurion airport while trying to bring in $1.25 million, and Israelis news reports said police suspected the money was to finance the Palestinian Yaacov Shoval, a police spokesman, said the two were arrested on suspicion of bringing in the money for illegal purposes, but he would not say whether the case was linked to the uprising.

In Jerusalem, a parked car was set ablaze in the latest of a series of arson attacks that have become a new tactic of the uprising. Police said the auto was the ninth vehicle set aftire in the city this week. No one was injured in any of the incidents.

Meanwhile, an Israeli reservist distressed over an army investigation of his role in the beating death of a Gaza Arab shot himself to death with a burst of automatic machine-gun fire, Israeli press reports said today.

Yariv Bar-Yosef, 25, shot himself in the head with his Uzi submachine-gun in the early morning hours yesterday. He left behind a suicide note explaining his motives.

Bar-Yosef was among soldiers being investigated by military police in connection with the beating death of an Arab known as the "Givati affair."

In the case, four soldiers of the elite Givati Brigade serving in the Gaza Strip's Jabaliya refugee camp were charged with killing Hani El Shami, 42, by brutally beating him on Aug 22, 1988.

In northern Israel, meanwhile, several Katyusha rockets were fired into the Galilee, apparently from Lebanon, but caused no damage or injuries, the army said. Sources in the area said army guns returned fire into

PLO proposals rejected: Abu lyad

Talks with US was bad'

TUNIS, Aug 18, (Reuter): The PLO said today the United States had rejected a proposal that diaspora Palestinians meet the Israeli government and ignored all its other ideas on elections in the occupied territories.
Salah Khalaf (Abu Iyad), one of PLO leader Yasser Arasat's closest colleagues, said that in talks with PLO in Tunis last Monday: "They said only that we must persuade Palestinians inside (the occupied territories) to negotiate with Israel. Not a word about the outside. We think that's a step backwards." "The last round was bad because they want back to speaking about elections as the only possible solution and ignoring all our ideas ... They are determined to persuade us to abandon our position and abandon four million Palestinians outside on the pretext that this is only a beginning," he told Reuters.

Iran seizes rugs

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug 18, (AP): Iran has begun a crackdown on a lucrative trade in smuggling Persian rugs out of the Islamic Republic to evade strict controls on carpet exports.

Last month, authorities in southern Bushehr province seized more than 750 silk rugs in what the official Islamic Republic News Agency said was the biggest carpet haul so far. The agency said the rugs were worth millions of dollars.

The rugs were hidden inside tanker trucks and would have been illegally shipped from a port of Iran's Gulf coast, IRNA said. The agency was monitored in

The crackdown on carpet smuggling from Bushehr province started in July following similar campaigns against narcotics and arms smugglers. It followed reports in Iran's state-run media that contraband carpet exports would soon outstrip legal sales abroad. According to official statistics, rug exports carned Iran at least $260 million last year, or more than one-third of its non-oil exports. Iranian newspapers estimated another $200 million worth were smuggled abroad. Silk rugs, which cost five times as much as wool ones, account for about 15 per cent of carpets

"We have to import," said the spokesman, who cannot be named under embassy regulations. "It's a private sector concern but obviously any decision on an order depends on the new cabinet."

Iran's new President, Hashemi Rafsanjani, was sworn in on Wednesday in a ceremony in the Majlis, or Parliament, in Tehran. He is expected to name his government within the next few days.

The move to import the cloth from Oman follows five days of talks between iranian officials and Omani businessmen who visited Tehran last week for the first time since last August's ceasefire in the eight-year Iran-Iraq war. The state-controlled Oman Observer daily, reporting on the talks, said Iran's

Ethiopia, rebels to hold talks

ATLANTA, Georgia, Aug 18, (AP): Former President Jimmy Carter announced yesterday that the government of Ethiopia and an opposing rebel group will hold peace negotiations next month at his policy centre in top-level representatives." The talks are to be preliminary and will lay the groundwork for further negotiations, he said.

Carter visited Ethiopia during a tour of Africa last month and met with Ethiopian leader Mengistu Haile Mariam, who had announced June 5 that his government was ready to negotiate with the Entreans and another rebel group in the presence of an international observer. Carter said at the time that he would act as an official mediator

In 15 years of civil war, Azouri estimated, the number of Lebanese suffering anxiety disorders has grown at least five-fold. Many feel severe headaches or pains in the chest or stomach.

him or her. Listlessness, physical pain and loss of both-appetite and sex drive are common symptoms."

One bulwark against the psychological attrition of constant artillery fire is family life, which in Lebanon is traditionally close-knit.

The shipment will be distributed to victims of fighting in Lebanon by private relief organisations, an UNDRO spokesman told a regular weekly news briefing.

He said a further consignment of medicines, blankets and cooking utensils from an UNDRO storehouse at Pisa, Italy, was expected to leave by ship for Lebanon on September 1. (Reuter)

15th year of carnage: The carnage in Lebanon is in its 15th year. Who fired the first shot that unleashed the mayhem is still in dispute. But it was a bloody Sunday, April 13, 1975, that the casual incident occurred in the Beirut suburb of Ain Al-Roumaneh.

Christian leaders and their bodyguards were celebrating the opening of a church. A bus-load of Palestinians passed.
Palestinians say Christian militiamen raked their bus with gunfire.

Christians say the Palestinians fired the first shot. But the ensuing slaughter definitely marked the first round of a civil war that has split Lebanon into a patchwork of competing fieldoms, dominated by paramilitary forces armed, trained and financed by Syria, Iraq, Iran, Libya and Israel.

The roots of the current bloodletting are numerous and run, much deeper. The they have in common a struggle for identity.

Rafsanjani wants US concessions

Khomeini's son issues warning

NICOSIA, Aug 18, (Agencies); Iran's new leader Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani has begun his presidency insisting on American concessions to end a decade of hostility before hostages in Lebanon are set free. Rafsanjani, sworn in yesterday, was under pressure to take a radical line. Statements from Iran indicated

"I have said many times that if the United States expects us to help in the Lebanese issue, it should show in practice that it has stopped its hostile stand against us," Rafsanjani told Pakistani Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan, who is apparently mediating in the hostage crisis.

"(Then) we will incline to solve the issue," Rafsanjani said only hours after being sworn in as Iran's fourth

Khan said he had been asked to seek Iran's co-operation in freeing the hostages, IRNA, monitored in Nicosia, reported. Pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim groups are believed to hold most of the 16 Westerners missing in Lebanon. The Iranian backed Hezbollah is considered the umbrella for hostage-holding Despite his avowed willingness to seek the captives' release, Rafsanjani sharply criticised the United States for linking the hos-tage issue with that of its bilateral relations with Iran.

He said Washington had shown its hostility toward Iran by freezing billions of dollars in Iranian assets and by supporting Iraq in the eight-year Gulf war.

"As soon as the Lebanon issue is mentioned, America starts talking about relations with Iran... can you imagine that a revolutionary Muslim can ... talk to someone who has behaved towards him in this manner both before and after the revolution?"

Rafsanjani said. He accused the United States of using a "domineering tone" in its statements on Iran and also signalled that it would be some time before there could be any accommodation on the hostages

"If the Americans really do have goodwill, it must take a very long time before this goodwill can be proven in practice," he

Earlier yesterday, Tehran Radio reported remarks by the son of the late Ayatollah Khomeini rejecting any possible relations between Washington Ahmad Khomeini, who currently holds no official position but is believed to belong to the rival hardline camp, was quoted as saying Iranian authorities would "punch America in the face, and they will kick America out of the Middle

Meanwhile, Israel said today captured Hezbollah leader Sheikh Abdel Karim Obeid had told interrogrators two missing Israeli soldiers were dead but it did not believe him.

In the first official confirmation of foreign press reports, Defence Ministry spokesman Eitan Haber told Reuters that Obeid had said his pro-Iranian Hezbollah movement killed the soldiers, but Haber said there was still no proof.

"The Army sent a messenger to (the soldiers') families to inform about what the Sheikh said, but it is hearsay and we don't believe him," Haber said.

Press accounts of Obeid's statements aroused anger in the Israeli government, with officials demanding an inquiry to find the source of the leak.

Police said they might also investigate a reporter from the London Sunday Times, which first reported the story on Aug 13, for possible violation of military censorship.

Israel snatched Obeid from his south Lebanon home three weeks ago hoping to gain leverage in freeing the two soldiers and a navigator missing in Lebanon.

Defence Minister Yitzhak Rabin offered to trade Obeid and other Shiites held by Israel for the three Israelis and 17 Western hostages believed held by Shiite militants.

Pakistan is not at the moment engaged in any mediatory role to resolve the hostage crisis in Lebanon, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said yesterday in Islamabad.

But Islamabad would respond if it was asked to act as a channel of communication for the purpose, he said at a press briefing. The "hostages are a humanitarian issue and if we can do something, we will do so." Austrian President Kurt Waldheim has received a mes-

Hostage co-operation rejected Ahmad's no to US

NICOSIA, Aug 18, (Reuter): Ayatollah-Khomeini's radical son Ahmad has rejected co-operating to release Western hostages in Lebanon and said Iran would drive the United States out of the Middle East. "Today the United States thinks that since the imam (Khomeini) is no longer among us it can accuse our officials of having contacts with it," he said in remarks clearly timed to coincide with the swearing in of Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani as president. Rafsanjani, a pragmatist politician aiming to revive Iran's lagging economy and improve its foreign relations, has offered to help the US in freeing American hostages in Lebanon.

"But I tell you that our officials will slap America on the mouth and drive it out of the Middle East," Tehran Radio quoted Ahmad, 32, as

The American president says that they are ready, with conditions, to solve the hostage problem together with Iran — as if we are after meeting him and he is in a position to set conditions. President George Bush, welcoming Rafsanjani's offer, has sent indirect messages to Tehran since a pro-Iranian Lebanese group said it hanged US hostage William Higgins on July 31 and another group threatened to kill captive Joseph Cicippio.

Barge may stay

Saudis negotiating

MANAMA, Bahrain, Aug 18, (AP): US plans to withdraw its last fortified barge from the Gulf have stalled over Saudi Arabian objections that it would leave the central Saudi coast open to tran ian terrorist infiltrators, diplomatic sources said yester-The Saudis and the US State Department are trying to negotiate an agreement under which the Riyadh government would assume some or all costs of maintaining the barge and its garrison of about 150 Navy,

Marine and Army personnel, the sources said. The talks in Washington are aimed at resolving the issue before Saudi Arabia's King Fahd makes a scheduled state visit there in a month. The Hercules is one of two large construction barges leased by the Navy in late 1987 for use as top-secret "mobile combat bases." Navy patrol craft and night-prowling Army helicopters based on them could keep tabs on Iranian armed speedboat and mine-laying operations cenkm) off the Saudi coast.

The other barge, Wimbrown 7, was withdrawn last October, two months after a ceasefire ween Iran and Iraq. US officials said then that the Hercules would remain as long as the "perceived threat" of a new flareup existed.

However, with the truce nearing its first anniversary Aug 20, the Navy reportedly bowed to pressure from budget-consious Army and Marine Corps officials to withdraw the Her-

The barge was being towed to Bahrain last month when the Saudi government raised its objection, forcing the Pentagon to "put everything on hold," said

Crowe speaks on 'pet peeve'

HONOLULU, Aug 18, (AP): Although they might claim to favour force against terrorists, most Americans are not ready for the consequences of such a military strike, the nation's chief military adviser said.

"There is sort of a syndrome grown up in the United States. that there are certain problems that lend themselves to solution by using military force, but at the same time, many American people think that we should be able to use force without losing anybody," said Adm. William J. Crowe, Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

According to Crowe, many Americans say, "we will shoot people, we will inject force into the problem, but don't lose any Americans, and don't injure innocent people ... and oh, by the way, do it quickly. Don't spend over a week or two doing it. And don't call in ... a draft to do it and don't mobilise anybody and don't interrrupt our normal lives

Rushdie cut off

LONDON, Aug 18, (AP): Salman Rushdie, whose writings Ayatollah Khomeini found offensive to Islam, has spent seven months in hiding, cut off from friends and protected by armed guards. On Feb 14, the Iranian leader declared Rushdie's novel The Satanic Verses blasphemous and told his followers to kill the author. Khomeini died June 3 but his sentence lives. Rushdie's American wife, Marianne Wiggins, has been quoted as saying the couple have moved 56 times, through a succession of "safe houses" used for spies and intelligence contacts. Friends who have had brief contact with the British novelist and his wife say they appear to be in good spirits, but that Rushdie believes his seclusion might stretch to two years and end only if Iran formally withdraws the late Ayatollah's threat.

"He's been silenced effectively, and cannot speak in his own defence, and that's a terrible plight for any writer to be in. It's hideous," Lisa Appignamesi, a friend who has spoken to Rushdie by telephone in recent months, said in an interview.

The couple have dined occasionally with friends, literary acquaintances and leading political figures, such as opposition Labour Party leader Neil Kinnock. But such meetings have dwindled since March at the insistence of Rushdie's guards, friends say. The couple have lived in a succession of houses

Sale of visas flourishing business: report

Expats pay from KD 300 to KD 750 to buy visas

An Arabic daily reports that expats come only to stay and not to work and are willing to pay hefty sums of money to remain in the country. Some expats work for employers other than their sponsor; others who entered with a legal work permit are yet to find jobs.

is that most workers don't find suitable jobs to an honest day's work.

The report said that most workers who buy residence permits are uneducated and insecure and are afraid to express their misery. The report said repeated calls have been made by residents to organise this sector to prevent the exploitation of poor labourers by illegal profit-makers. The residents stressed that the "pressing issue of trade in residence permits" could eventually harm the country. They also expressed surprise that an illegal trade was growing in a country that is trying to curb the influx of labour and balance the KUWAIT, Aug 17. (OPECNA): Kuwait is still maintaining its high level of foreign aid despite the country's budget deficit, according to Finance Minister Jassim Mohamed Al Khorafi.

He said in an interview here the country was still occupying a leading role in its foreign assistance compared to gross national product (GNP), allowing Kuwait to maintain "a distinguished role in supporting development programmes in sisterly as well as friendly countries." The government had adopted a number of measures designed to boost the economic sector.

including extended support to the country's financial institu-tions to help them gain credibility domestically and abroad. National banks had also been assisted in settling difficult debts while the Central Bank had exerted efforts to enable other lending institutions improve their performance and achieve a higher level of competency. Al Khorafi added that the government was keen to see the development of inter-bank and inter-institution relations as part of efforts to reach international banking standards.

The recent restructuring of some Kuwaiti investment companies had been aimed at "putting our companies on the long and difficult road of competition as regards to provision of adequate capital."

Buckle-up for safety

BAHRAIN is to introduce mandatory, wearing of seatbelts by drivers of all government vehicles from January 1990 and for all motorists and front-seat passengers from June of the same year. The proposal made by the Traffic Board has been recently submitted to the cabinet

In recent years the government of Bahrain has been intensifying a campaign to ensure general safety of all drivers and passengers in the island by appealing to drivers in particular to use seat belts. The appeal has been made repeatedly in the wake of increasing number of road accidents in the country. Bahrain in view of its population and size has the highest number of vehicles in the region totalling at present over 110,000—almost one vehicle for every four people in the island of over 400,000 population. This has consequently led to the general safety concerns of both motorists as well as pedestrians.

The Directorate of Traffic and Licensing Board has voiced concern m secont months along the general death of noncommon for an animal months and months and months and months and months are second months are second months and months are second vehicles, to Bahrain, particularly over the weekends, with the opening of the King Fahd Causeway, has led to the proposal of introducing compulsory wearing of seat belts.

The idea to implement this proposal was first mooted by the government two years back when it was decided to allow motorists to gradually take up wearing of seat belts on their own accord rather than any precipitious official action. It was intended that motorists would gradually release the invaluable use of seat belts while driving which would reduce road injuries and save lives. It is generally believed by experts here that the use of seat belt while driving reduce the chances of death by 80 per cent. The idea was to make them aware of the dangers of driving without seat belts.

According to Colonel Sheikh Daij Bin Khalifa Al Khalifa the campaign to highlight the use of seat belts has been a success judging by the response by the number of motorists. As a consequence of this he added that the proposal to present the proposal was promoted by the Traffic Board, chaired by the Interior Minister Sheikh Mohammed Bin Khalifa.

The decision to push the proposal through has also been based on a study of fatal accidents involving drivers in Bahrain, covering an eight-year period from 1981-88. The study revealed that 81 per cent of drivers who died in road accidents could have been saved if they had worn seat belts. The results showed that there is only 19 per cent risk of death for drivers wearing belts. A recent official survey revealed that only ten per cent of drivers in Bahrain (out of 116,999 vehicles, 11,838 drivers) wear seat belts.

Sheikh Daij said that details of the penalties for breaking the law were now being worked out by the Traffic Directorate's legal division. Meanwhile, about fifty thousand questionnaires are now being distributed to drivers to study the reasons behind their refusal or reluctance to wear seat belts.

Mohammad T. Qayum THE Ministry of Social Affairs did not refuse the visa because you are a Pakistani; they rejected it because you entered Kuwait in 1985; also the ministry is not transferring any visa No. 20 to visa No. 18. If you apply for such a transfer, the request is rejected. You can ask your employer to give you a new visa. If you cannot get one, there is nothing you can do about it.

MY question concerns the legal requirement about the change of address of an expatriate in the Civil Identity Card in a specific situation. A person has changed his house; but his new home is in the same area, same block and same street as his earlier house. Only the villa number has changed from No. 4 to No. 5. This new villa is Mohammed # hardly 20 metres away from the old one. Now, is it obligatory for him to go through all the formalities afresh to get a new ID card just to change his house number? Such a problem is faced by many expatriates. Please provide guidance. - Act and said it ponce.

IT is obligatory to go through all the formalities and get a new ID card. Even if you changed an apartment in the same building, it is essential to make the necessary amendments for the ID card, giving the correct address. The Residence Laws stipulate that all changes must be notified immediately to the authorities. If you don't, you will be breaking the law.

6) WIII I go to jail?

IF your visa has been cancelled, you cannot stay in the country. When the immigration authority cancels a visa, they give a grace period for you to pack up and leave. You must ask your employer how many days grace period the authority has given you.

Normally, you are given about eight days to three weeks.

If you overstay after the cancellation of a visa, you will be considered an illegal resident in Kuwait. As you don't have a valid residence permit, you can be deported by the authorities. If you don't have the money for the plane ticket, you can go to the immigration department and tell them your problem. The immigration officials will call your employer and tell him to buy the air ticket. You cannot stay back to earn the money for the plane ticket. The rules say that an employer must pay the cost of repatriating a domestic helper.

A person is jailed if he or she commits an offence or violates the law. If you run away (abscond) from your employer then you can be jailed and deported. But if your employer has cancelled the visa, then he is responsible for you till you board the plane.

You can use the passport to travel to your country. If someone else gives you a job and sponsorship, then you can re-enter the country on a fresh visa.

IF a person's visa has been cancelled, he or she is obliged to leave the country before the end of the grace period. Enquiries at the immigration office show that if the visa has been cancelled, then that person must leave the country. However, if the visa has not been cancelled and both the old and the new sponsors agree, then a transfer of residence application may be taken into consideration. One alternative would be to re-enter on a fresh visa.

4. As we understand, a sponsor is required to pay the expense of issuing such a series or release paper while transferring the visa. How much does it cost?

1. YOU did not say on which visa you entered Kuwait. If you are on a domestic visa, No. 20, you are not covered by the labour law. If you are on a No. 18 visa, then you come under the labour law. 2. We cannot give an accurate reply because you did not tell us the type of visa you hold. If you are on a No. 20 visa, you can seek the help of a court to get a release.

3. The Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour reserves the right to accept or reject any application. 4. It is forbidden by the law to pay money to get visa. If money is paid for a visa to make gains, it is punishable under the law. The visa fee, fixed by the government of Kuwait, is KD10 per year. But you must not pay money to buy a visa.

Negligence blamed for house collapse

By Fawzi Al Tameemi

AN old Arabian-style house in Uquaila collapsed on Friday due to negligence, the neighbours claimed. No one was injured but the family lost nearly all their possessions. Residents said this was the second incident in six months.

The authorities have neglected our area," they said. Some residents said they have not been paid although their names were put on the expropriation list for 12 months. "Only people with influence are allocated funds," they alleged.

The residents, all Kuwaitis, said that there had been no discrepancies in expropriation of their properties. They said the government will pay KD 42 per square metre. People in neighbouring homes were paid as much as KD 150 per square metre, they claimed.

Wife wins divorce on medical grounds

A WOMAN was granted divorce because of her husband's impotence by the Cassation Court, upholding an earlier verdict, granting a divorce

The case was first heard by the Court of Personal Status, which ruled that the couple would be monitored for an year before any judgement is made.

The woman then appealed to the Court of Higher Appeal which reversed the verdict, granting divorce. Her husband, then appealed to the highest authority, the Cassation Court.

The woman then appealed to the Cassation Court, which said it agreed with both judgements but due to the husband's inability to perform his duties, the wife has the right to divorce.

The medical reports proved that the husband's condition would not improve within a year. The woman had filed a divorce case after a year of marriage saying that she was still a virgin. She told the court that her husband was "sexually incompetent." The husband said that he had provided his wife with comforts and wanted her to live as his wife. In accordance with Islamic sharia, the Personal Status Court delayed judgement for a year to ascertain the status of their marriage.

Kuwait prepares for info-art week in Cairo

KUWAIT, Aug 18, (KUNA): Information Minister Sheikh Jaber Mubarak Al Sabah yesterday signed a 12-month contract to set up the TV transmission station on Failaka island. The KD3,199,000 project will be implemented by Sayyid Hameed Bahbahani company which was represented at the signing ceremony by Fuad Bahba-

Sheikh Jaber said the signing of the contract was in line with the ministry's future plan to provide full and clear TV coverage to all Kuwaiti areas in accordance with the most advanced technical methods.

This new project, added the minister, was also in response to the directions of His Highness the Amir and HH the Crown Prince and Premier who have always been keen on providing all facilities needed for the citizens and the public.

The contract's signing ceremony was attended by the ministry's undersecretary and other senior officials. Sheikh Jaber Mubarak Al

Hamad Al Sabah also said his ministry would organise a weeklong info and art festival in Cairo to further boost existing cooperation between the two countries to develop Kuwaiti-Egyptian relations.

The festival will take place from Aug 23 to 30. It would include a photo exhibition depicting fraternal relations between the two countries and aspects of modern life in Kuwait. Sheikh Jaber said a surrealistic art exhibition and a display of Kuwaiti publications are among the activities of the week which will coincide with the visit of HH the Amir of Kuwait to Egypt, scheduled for Aug 28.

The National Council for Culture, Arts and Letters, the University of Kuwait, Kuwait Foundation for Advancement of Science, press institutions and national publishing houses would take part in the exhibition which will be organised in collaboration with Kuwait's embassy in Cairo.

Experts from the two countries in economic and cultural fields will take part in symposia on aspects of co-operation, Kuwaiti investments in Egypt and the theatrical movement in Kuwait.

Efforts of the Kuwaiti Islamic antiquities house in archaeological works in Egypt's Bahnasa area and activities of Kuwait National Museum would also be displayed at the exhibition.

Sheikh Jaber voiced appreciation for Egyptian Foreign Mini-ster Esmat Abdul Meguid, Information Minister Safwat Al Sharif and Culture Minister Farouq Husni for their co-operation in organising the activity.

The daily Al Rai Al Aam on Friday reiterated that inter-Arab differences were the main reason behind the alarming situation in Lebanon.

In an editorial comment, the paper said political slogans alone cannot resolve the Lebanese crisis and stressed that the country's ordeal reflects the unrealistic Arab policy which is characterised by extremity

"The continuation of the crisis for such a long time indicated that fatal mistakes were made by the Arab policy, despite repeated calls for solidarity and the need for making use of the new circumstances provided by the Palestinian uprising in dealing with the situation," Al Rai Al Aam said.

The paper pointed out that the slogan of Arab solidarity has always been raised in various stages of the joint Arab action. "Slogans alone cannot build nations and they must be coupled by realistic work based on absolute belief in our just causes and objectives."

The daily asserted that the on-going battles in Lebanon are not acceptable anymore "because present initiatives for resolving the crisis will not be realised by military means.

It hoped that the reported new efforts by the Arab League tripartite committee on Lebanon would succeed in reaching a minimum level of agreement among the Lebanese rival factions and other concerned parties to lessen the danage that had already hit the Arab image. (KUNA)

A Kuwaiti daily on Thursday affirmed that finding a solution to Lebanon is a Lebanese-Arab mission, and called for support to the Arab supreme tripartite committee's efforts to settle the Lebanese

Al Rai Al Aam daily said that Security Council and the American President's statements in addition to France's military will not stop the bloody fighting in Lebanon.

The paper cast doubts over the announcement of the US administration, in which it reaffirmed that there can be no military solution to Lebanon's problems.

The daily said this announcement lacks practical means or capabilities that if really used could end the tragedy in Lebanon.

The newspaper stressed that the situation in Lebanon cannot tolerate any more statements. It called for stopping support given to those parties involved in the fighting "to weaken their military capabilities and their morals." which in turn will make them "abandon their sectarian demands and political conditions. (KUNA)

A new stage of military escalation against the Israeli occupation troops in the Syrian Golan Heights will take place soon regardless of the repercussions, according to press reports in Dubai.

Daily Al Bayan quoted Syrian political sources in Damascus as saying that a Syrian decision was already taken in this regard and asserted that Damascus was prepared for all consequences including an all-out Israeli-Syrian confrontation.

The sources in this respect pointed out to recent statements by Syrian Defence Minister Gen. Mustafa Tlas to Kuwaiti daily Al-Anba on the possible return of commando raids across the occupied Golan Heights. Senior Israeli officials, responding Tlas' statements said that they would not allow such thing to happen and threatened that they will his back.(KUNA)

The New York Times on Thursday lauded as "fair and sensible" a new. 10-point Egyptian peace plan meant to bridge differences between Israel and the PLO over Israel's "local Palestinian elections" scheme. And the paper urged Israel to accept the Egyptian plan.

In its lead editorial, the Times noted that prior to the Egyptian initiative two key obstacles — one from each side — blocked Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's "very general" plan:

the PLO would be forbidden to participate in the - if that changed and it was allowed to join in. the PLO would refuse to withdraw a prior commitment to Palestinian

"The 10-point Egyptian plan sidesteps these obstacles," the Times

As the PLO participation, "everyone knows that no Palestinian will step forward without PLO blessing.

Also the PLO's rights are protected under the plan, since it assures

"complete freedom of expression for candidates, international monitoring of the voting, withdrawal of Israeli troops during the ballotting and a degree of immunity from prosecution for those elected," the editorial pointed out.

On Palestinian statehood — which some analysts believe the plan's failure to mention will torpedo it ragardless of any other desirable traits "(The plan still) required Israel to begin talks on a final settlement on a date certain, and asks Israel to trade land for peace. "Thus the PLO could argue that its goal of nationhood remains ultimately achievable." For now, the paper warned about "discouraging background noise" from some Palestinian factions, citing renewed calls for "armed struggle" against Israel by the mainstream Al Fatah organisation. But while that sounded to the Times like "advocating terrorism."

nothing of that sort "need prevent Mr Shamir from accepting the Egyptian plan in principle.

"If he does and the PLO says no, the blame will rightly fall on Yasser Arafat, its chairman. If he does and the PLO agrees, his own election idea can be given life," the editorial said.

It also said Shamir's "credibility" was on the line, since he appeared to let his own party salvage the plan when it was first announced.

The Israeli plan calls for talks over the terms for elections in the Arab lands Israel occupies, with those elected negotiating with Israel on "limited autonomy" for Palestinians. After an "interim period" this entity and Israel would tackle final settlement questions. KUNA: TODAY IN HISTORY

Walesa questions liberalisation.

Probing limits of reform

SOLIDARITY leader Lech Walesa has posed the most important question yet about the political liberalisation sweeping Eastern Europe.

Is a ruling Communist Party, no matter how committed to reforms, genuinely ready to hand over control of the government to its opponents?

Immediately after non-Communist Polish members of Parliament approved him on Wednesday as a candidate for Prime Minister, Walesa cast doubt on whether he would in fact stand for office.

"I am not going to be Prime Minister because there are better candidates than me... I am only going to help in forming a government. The government is going to be formed under my leadership," Walesa told reporters.

But whether it is Walesa or another non-Communist who finally puts his name forward in a formal parliamentary vote, the Polish crisis has raised the question of just how much change a liberalising Eastern European government can tolerate.

The question applies not just to Poland, where Solidarity's immense public support has drained the party's morale for nine years, but to Hungary. Where the Communists have promised to yield power if they lose free elections next year.

It even has resonance in the Soviet Union, where communists in the Baltic republics of Estonia, Lithuania and Lativa are under intense challenge from mass popular front movements and have been forced to swim with local nationalist tides.

Solidarity has 35 per cent of seats in parliament and 22 per cent are controlled by the United Peasants' Party (UPP) and the Democratic Party, the two small non-Communist groups with which Walesa wants to form a coalition.

In theory at least, the three groups could easily outvote the Communists, who have 38 per cent, and install their own candidate as Prime Minister.

That is not how the Communists see it. Since Walesa first proposed a non-Communist government on August 7 to replace the paralysed administration of Prime Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak, party leaders have repeatedly accused Walesa of breaking the terms of a reform pact agreed with Solidarity in Under that deal, Solidarity was to confine itself to the role of a loyal opposition, or at best a junior partner in government, while the Communists were to retain their leading role in Polish politics.

But the resolution approved by non-Communist deputies on Wednesday said: "We think a parliamentary coalition of the United Peasants' Party, the Democratic Party and Solidarity can form a government of national responsibility under the leadership of Lech Walesa."

Just hours before deputies passed that resolution, senior Communist Party officials were vowing not to allow a simple transfer of the reins of government to the opposition.

Lech Walesa: making a point.

"Every thinking man, especially a politician, should realise that we are not in a state of parliamentary democracy yet," said Slawomir Wiatr, a powerful secretary of the party's policy-making Central

"Having a majority in Parliament is not in itself a sufficient condition to exercise power," he added.
Party leader Mieczyslaw Rakowski, an architect of Poland's current reforms but never considered a true friend of Solidarity, declared! "The situation is dangerous, but now is not the time to raise up our hands in surrender."

Poland's Communists also must take account of concern in the Soviet Union. Soviet officials are voicing anxiety over the crisis on their country's Western border.

Amid the complexities of Walesa's political manoeuvres, it is easy to lose sight of the fact that Kiszczak is still Prime Minister and has not yes explicitly said he will resign.

Nor have the Communists publicly retreated from their official line that the best solution to Poland's crisis is a "grand coalition" with themselves essentially still in charge.

Even President Wojciech Jaruzelski, a former party leader who now is supposed to speak for all Poland, has gone no further than to call for an urgent meeting of all political forces to discuss solutions to the crisis. (Reuter — Warsaw).

Solidarity

LECH WALESA, proposed as Polish Prime Minister by Solidarity parliamentary deputies on Wednesday, personifies the struggle for freedom for millions

Consigned to the sidelines when the Communist authorities crushed his independent trade union Solidarity under martial law in 1981, the stocky, walrusmoustached electrician returned to the forefront of Polish politics only last summer.

But in a heady 12 months, Walesa has helped dampen the worst strikes since 1981, won Solidarity's re-legalisation at reform talks and led the opposition to a crushing victory over the Communists in partly-fræ parliamentary elections.

"There is no going back now," Walesa said this week. "We will not allow old methods of governing to return."

Walesa, 45, emerged as a natural leader in the strikes of 1980. They gave rise to the Communist world's first independent trade union under accords which were broken 15 months later when communist leader Wojciech Jaruzelski imposed martial

The authorities summoned Walesa for talks amid a growing economic crisis and the second wave of pro-Solidarity strikes last summer. The Solidarity chairman sped across the country to persuade strikers to go back to work. After months of negotiations with the government, Walesa led the opposition into reform talks and concluded an historic agreement last April allowing broad reforms.

Solidarity was re-legalised on April 17 and two months later crushed the communists in the first partly-free elections in 42 years. Walesa proposed the for-mation of a Solidarity govern-ment during talks with Jaruzellead an occupation strike. Seventeen days later the authorities granted the right to free trade unions and under Walesa's command Solidarity grew into an organisation which claimed 10 million members at its height.

Tygodnik Solidarnosc led intellectuals who advised striking workers at Gdansk's Lenin shipyard in August 1980. The strike gave birth to the first free trade union in the Communist world. A reserved and cautious Catholic writer, Maz-owiecki was a top Solidarity negotiator at talks with the government last winter that paved the way for the opposition to enter Parliament. He spent a year in jail after being interned when the authorities imposed martial law in December, 1981, sending Solidarity underground for more than seven vears. Unlike other leading union adviser, Mazowiecki did not run for parliament last June and instead reopened the weekly he had edited until the authorities banned it under martial law. The reappearance of Tygodnik Solidarnose in the shops is the final proof for many Solidarity members that the Union finally exists normally," he For 10 years in the 1960s Mazowiecki was an outspoken Parliamentary deputy for a small Catholic opposition group. He simultaneously edited a monthly, Wiez, in which he published works by authors banned by the Communists. The Communist authorities barred him from running for Parliament in 1972 after he tried in vain to set up an inquiry to investigate the December 1970 killings by the armed forces of dozens of striking Baltic coast workers. In the late 1970s he helped organise the so-called

"flying university" of leading academics who gave clandestine lectures and tuition outside the Communist-run education system. (Renter - Warsaw).

Human chain

Baltics mark 50 years of Soviet rule

DEMONSTRATIONS, including the forming of a human chain 600 km (370 miles) long, will take place in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuvania next week to mark the 50th anniversary of what many Baltic people see as one of the darkest days in their history.

A series of secret Nazi-Soviet deals starting on August 23, 1939, which carved Eastern Europe into spheres of influence, have long been known to Western historians who say they led directly to the Soviet annexation of the three Baltic states in 1940.

But within the Soviet Union itself their existence has become a highly explosive issue in recent months with Baltic nationalsits forcing the Kremlin gradually to abandon its traditional line of denying the "secret protocols" ever existed.

Leaders of the radical popular fronts of the three republics say they hope hundreds of thousands of people will turn out for officially sanctioned meetings on August 23 to back demands for a return to the independence they say the secret deal ended.

"We only want one thing — the simple historical truth." said Vergilius Cepaitis, a leader of Lithuania's Sajudis, a powerful popular front movement which won an overwhelming majority of seatss in March elections to the Soviet parliament.

"We want them to accept that we were occupied and annexed as a result of the (Nazi-Soviet) pact. If that is accepted, then we have the right now to decide our own destiny, that is independence in the form or way the Lithuanian people want." Commitment

Despite Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev's commitment to fill in the blank spots of history, the Soviet leadership, fearful of upsetting the country's delicate national balance, has moved only cautiously towards acknowled, gement of the pacts.

Under pressure from Baltic deputies, a narliamentary commission was set up to look into the protocols — part of the Non-aggression Pact signed in Moscow 50 years ago by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslay Molotow and his German counterpart Joachim von Ribbentrop.

It came up with a provisional report in mid-July which, according to Endel Lippmaa, an Estonian scientist and commission member, made three points:

— The protocols, one from August 23, 1939, two from September 28, 1939 and one from January 10, 1941, assigning the three Baltic republics, together with parts of Poland and Romania to the Soviet Union's sphere of influence, were genuine. 🍲 🗝

— All the secret protocols are in conflict with peace treaties concluded with the governments of independent Estonic Latvia and Lithuagia; in the 1920s and 1930s.

 The secret protocols were enacted by the threat of force and so should be declared null and void from the moment of signing.

It was widely believed at the time that Soviet deals as on the ceasefire last Aug 20 would unleash a blitz of reconstruction, lifting the Gulf out of a five-year recession caused by a plunge in oil prices.

But inertia and lack of foreign exchange have slowed the engines of both Iraq and Iran, leaving many Gulf merchants and bankers high and dry.

"When the ceasefire was announced. people overreacted. They assumed everything would happen overnight. Warehouses are still overstocked," said a

Despite the slow start, bankers and shipping operators say the region's economies are finally getting a mild boost.
Bankers said renewed confidence had sparked a small inflow of new investment and a return of capital. There are also signs that reconstruction material is now ginning to pass through local ports. Kuwait, the port thought best-placed to take advantage of the reconstruction of Iraq's shattered southern cities, saw significant amount of Iraq-bound bulk cargo beginning in April, shipping operators said.

The recent cargo has mainly been wheat plus pipes for the Basra oil refinery. But the shipping sources predict a

Although Iraq mainly uses Aqaba in Jordan and Mersin in Turkey for imports, it has depended on Kuwait for supplies for major construction sites at Basra and Faw in the south and for nports from the Far East. Bankers say the volume of re-exports ability to sell oil to raise foreign exchange. In view of Iraq's war-time debt of around $80 to 90 million few banks are willing to extend new credit.

Because of Iraqi delays in repaying its debts, banks have been charging an extraordinary 20 per cent to confirm a letter of credit for imports. Bankers say Iraqi officials have been promising to have their commercial bank debt — far less than half the total — paid off by 1993, with only letters of credit and government loans left.

Dubai, the port thought most suited to take advantage of Iranian reconstruction, has been less fortunate than during the last year of the war. Iranian re-export trade through Dubai dropped by half last year to 691.7 million dirhams from 1.31 billion in 1987, official figures show. Local merchants say trade is still well below average.

The dramatic fall in trade was caused by Iran's lack of foreign exchange and domestic political upheavals that delayed formation of a coherent economic policy.

Most hoteliers in Dubai, a major service centre for the area, report accommodation rates at over 90 per cent. Ship repair yards have made up for lost warrelated business as ships venture back into the Gulf.

discuss Arab investment in Egypt shot up

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates, Aug 18, (Agencies): Egypt attracted most private Arab investment last year, according to a report issued by the Arab Investment Guarantee Organisation, the Emirates News Agency (WAM) said yes-

The report estimated the total value of inter-Arab investments at $232.43 million and said Tunisia, Morocco, Algeria and the United Arab Emirates followed as leading markets for such investment

The report said Arab investments in Egypt shot up by 63.7 per cent in 1988 over 1987, but did not say how much money that represented, according to the agency.

The increase apparently resulted from Egypt's reinstatement in the Arab fold that year after a decade of isolation by most of the tion is based, was the only country for which a precise investment figure was given $15.59 million.

The report indicated that Arab investors favoured the banking sector which attracted 39.6 per cent of the total, followed by industry with 26.7 per cent, trade, construction and services with 13.6 per cent, tourism and real estate 12.3 per cent and agriculture, animal wealth and fishing with 7.9 per cent.

It also said that the leading source of investment was the 6nation Gulf Co-operation Council which accounted for 43 per cent of the total, followed by Iraq and levant countries which would include Syria and Lebanon.

The GCC groups Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, the UAE and Oman. The six member countries of the Gulf Co-operation Council

(GCC) made investments worth $999.8 million last year, the highest among inter-Arab dealings, it has been reported in Abu Dhabi.

The report issued by the Arab Organisation for Guaranteeing Investments said the GCC's 42 per cent of total Arab investments was followed by Iraq and Syria with a total of $72.1 million, accounting for 31 per Inter-Arab investments during the year surged 20.14 per cent. The United Arab Emirates ranked fifth among Arab countries receiving Arab investments, while Egypt topped the list for increasing volume with a rise of 63.7 per cent. Finance and banking took the

Inter-OPEC contacts under way Move to align ranks ahead of meeting

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia, Aug 18, (AP): A senior official of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries was quoted yesterday as saying contacts were under way among the 13 member states to align ranks ahead of the ministerial session next month.

An unidentified official at OPEC's Vienna headquarters told the Saudi Arabian newspaper Al-Sharq Al-Awsat that the contacts were aimed at "easing the edge of arguments among members" at the OPEC committee in charge of long-term strategy and market followup which is scheduled for Sept 22 in

The committee is meeting to consider whether the production and pricing policy laid by the OPEC ministerial council for the July-December period remains suited to help balance supply and demand in quest of a stable price in the range of $18 a barrel.

IMF team to visit Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Aug 18: A highpowered delegation of Inter-national Monetary Fund (IMF) is arriving here on Aug 28 to monitor the implementation of the $823 million, three-year economic reforms agreement signed with Pakistan on Nov 15, 1988 under structural adjustment facility, it was reliably learnt here on Wednesday.

According to the sources, the fund's officials, during their weeklong visit to Islamabad, would study the progress made so far, with regard to the implementation of fund's conditionalities during the second year, related to reforms, exchange rate reforms, control over monetary expansion and drastic cut in non-development expenditures. Dawn quoted as saying some of the conditionalities relating to bringing down budget deficit from 8 to six per cent, were duly incor-porated in the budget for 1989-90. Since the PPP government has already initiated an austerity drive in all the sectors of the economy, the IMF team is expected to announce the release of last installment of over $200 million to Pakistan. Earlier sources confirmed that the amount of over $500 million dollars of the three package has already been provided to the Government of Pakistan. Sources revealed that the IMF has also recently released additional disbursement of 1.7 million special drawing rights (SDRs) from a supplementary fin-ancing facility subsidy account. Meanwhile, it was also learnt that Pakistan has secured a commercial loan worth $100 million from a consortium of banks.

Italian shares rose to a record closing high in Milan with the MIB index up 1.69 per cent over the week to 1,203. Most of the rise on the London Stock Market was due to a one-third jump in the value of shares in Wellcome PLC following a favourable US study on its AZT drug to treat AIDS patients.

The Financial Times-Stock Exchange index of 100 leading shares gave up some of its early gains on a weak start on Wall Street. But it ended 15.1 points up at 2,375.1 compared with a previous 1989 high, set

The Dow Jones industrial average had picked up by noon in New York to stand 5.50 points higher at 2,685.13.

Johannesburg's All-Share index rose 23 points to a record closing high of 2,811, surpassing the previous peak of 2,804 scaled just before the October 1987 world stock markets crash.

The rise was spurred by renewed, albeit modest, demand for select in a thin pre-weekend market, dealers said.

LONDON, AUG 18, REUTER - SHARE PRICES REMAINED FIRM IN QUIET AFTERNOON BUSINESS AFTER WALL STREET RECOVERED FROM EARLIER WEAKNESS THAT HAD BEEN PROMPTED BY LOSSES IN TREASURY BONDS. "ITS DEADLY QUIET HERE. WALL STREET WAS SHAKY AT THE OPENING BUT IT LOOKS FAIRLY STABLE NOW," ONE TRADER SAID.

DEALERS SAID WELLCOME'S 154P RISE TO 663 ACCOUNTED FOR MOST OF TODAY'S STRENGTH IN THE FTSE INDEX. THE U.K. DRUG COMPANY GAINED ON NEWS THAT A U.S. SURVEY FOUND THAT ITS AZT AIDS DRUG DELAYS THE PROGRESS OF THE DISEASE IN PATIENTS NOT YET SHOWING SYMPTOMS.

AT 1501 GMT THE FTSE INDEX WAS 12.5 POINTS UP AT 2,372.5.

ANALYSTS SAID AN ADVANTAGE OF AZT SHOWN BY THE SURVEY WAS THAT, ALTHOUGH TOXIC TO PATIENTS SUFFERING SYMPTOMS OF THE FULLY DEVELOPED AIDS DISEASE, IT HAS NO SERIOUS SIDE EFFECTS ON THOSE WITH THE HIV VIRUS BUT WITHOUT SYMPTOMS. EARLIER, THERE WAS LITTLE REACTION TO A YEAR-ON-YEAR RISE OF

8.2 PCT IN THE JULY U.K. RETAIL PRICE INDEX, IN LINE WITH MOST

DEALERS SAID THERE REMAINS A SHORTAGE OF STOCK IN THE MARKET. "THE STOCKS THAT ARE UP HAVE MOVED ON A SHORTAGE OF STOCK AND MOST OF THE ONES THAT ARE DOWN FELL ON PROFITTAKING,"

London Gold

LONDON, AUG 18, REUTER - GOLD SULLION TRADING REMAINED DULL TOWARDS THE CLOSE, AND AFTER HOLDING IN A NARROW ONE DLR RANGE, PRICES ENDED A FEATURELESS SESSION LITTLE CHANGED. SPOT GOLD CLOSED AT 366.00/366.50 DLRS AN OUNCE, AGAINST AN OPENING 366.25/366.75 AND PREVIOUS 365.50/366.00 DLRS.

DEALERS SAID THE MARKET CONTINUED TO LACK INCENTIVES, WITH TODAY'S U.S. JULY CONSUMER PRICES DATA IN LINE WITH FORECASTS. SIGNS THAT THE DOLLAR MAY NOW CONSOLIDATE INHIBITED FRESH INTEREST, AND GOLD SEEMS SET TO HOLD WITHIN A SHORT-TERM 365/368 DLR RANGE. BROADER TECHNICAL LEVELS ARE 360 AND 370 DLRS, THEY

London Money Market

LONDON, AUG 18, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTEREST RATES WERE UNMOVED BY NEWS THAT THE ANNUAL U.K. INFLATION RATE EASED TO 8.2 PCT IN JULY FROM 8.3 PCT IN JUNE WITH TRADERS SAYING THERE WAS LITTLE SCOPE FOR RATES TO EASE FURTHER.

ALTHOUGH MOST DEALERS SEE THE NEXT MOVE IN U.K. BASE RATES AS DOWN AND RECENT U.K. INDICATORS TEND TO SUPPORT THIS VIEW, FEW OPERATORS ARE WILLING TO SPECULATE ON THE TIMING OF ANY CUT. THREE-MONTH INTERBANK MONEY, THE RATE REGARDED BY MANY AS THE BEST GUIDE TO THE PATH OF U.K. BASE RATES, WAS STEADY AT 13-13/16 3/4 PCT AND HAS MOVED LITTLE OVER THE LAST THREE WEEKS

Wall Street Market Report

NEW YORK, Aug 18, (Reuter): US stocks edged lower in midmorning trading, undermined by a weak bond market and a US consumer price report that investors took a dim view of, analysts said.

The Dow Industrials were off 1 at 2678, while declines led advances by a 6to-5 margin in the broader market.

"The CPI news was not that bad. The market is in a correction phase—it's backing and filling," said Alfred Goldman, director of Technical Research at AG Edwards and Sons. "When you are in a correction phase any news is

Singapore Stock Market Report

SINGAPORE STOCKS CLOSE ABOVE DAY'S LOWS

SINGAPORE, AUG 18, REUTER - SHARE PRICES CLOSED EASIER OVER A BROAD FRONT THOUGH ABOVE THE DAY'S LOWS ON LATE BUYING

BUT LARGE GAINS IN A FEW INDEX-COMPONENT STOCKS PUSHED THE STRAITS TIMES INDUSTRIAL INDEX TO A NEW POST-CRASH HIGH OF 1,381.49, UP 5.93 POINTS FROM THURSDAY'S CLOSE. THE INDEX'S PREVIOUS HIGH OF 1,379.96 WAS SET ON AUGUST 14.

FALLS LED RISES BY 166 TO 71 AND TURNOVER SLIPPED TO 108.6 MLK SHARES FROM THURSDAY'S 118.0 MLN.

BROKERS SAID SMALL INVESTORS AGAIN DOMINATED THE MARKET WITH ATTENTION FOCUSED ON WARRANTS AND LOWER-PRICED ISSUES.

CHICAGO: A surprise tall in copper stocks and rumours, later confirmed, of an accident at a Cyprus minerals smelter sparked a spending spree that propelled New York copper futures towards new highs.

BRISBANE: Mount Isa Mines Ltd said it will raise copper prices by 50 dlrs a tonne to 3,600 dlrs for cathodes and 3,815 dlrs for standard rods from August 19.

LIMA: Production at Peru's biggest private zinc mine, San Ignacio de Morococha, has been nearly paralysed for the fourth day of national miners' strike, business sources said.

LIMA: Southern Peru Copper Corp officials reported a slight increase in the number of miners working at the struck Toquepale and Cuajone mines, though both units are still mostly idle.

both units are still mostly idle.

TOKYO: Mrsui Mining and Smelting Co Ltd said it has raised its zinc price by 12,000 yen per tonne to 293,000, effective immediately.

KUALA LUMPUR: The Kuala Lumpur Commodity Exchange (KLCE) will next year reduce the bean count in its cocoa futures contract specifications to help boost trading and enhance the quality of the market.

WASHINGTON: Declining projections for 1989/1990 US wheat stocks may force US Agricuture Department farm programme changes to increase wheat acreage in 1990, a USDA official said.

KUALA LUMPUR: Malaysia's Cocoa Industry will oppose any plans to withhold supplies to boost prices and resist proposals that the country join the international Cocoa Organisation at a meeting with government officials on Satur-

TOKYO: Japan plans to impose restrictions on foreign agricultural commodities to which heavy doses of chemicals have been applied after harvest. Ministry of Health and Welfare official said.

LONDÓN: The UK office of fair trading does not plan any formal investigation into the sale of rough diamonds in London by De Beers Consolidated Mines Ltd, Off Director/General Sir Gordon Borrie said.

LONDON: LME late pre-market dealings saw zinc special high grade trade up to 1,695 dirs per tonne, the highest level since late May, to show a rise of 25 from yesterday's afternoon kerb close It is still underpinned by concern over Peruvian supplies despite reports that some of the steam is running out of the miner's strike, traders said.

SYDNEY: A series of 24-hour strikes by waterfront and maritime unions which started on Wednesday will probably close Melbourne to most shipping until at least next week, the Australian Chamber of Shipping said.

AUCKLAND: Most dock workers returned to work after a two-day national strike, employers said. PARIS: The EEC's cereals management committee licensed 175,000 free market soft wheat for export to non-EEC countries at 33 ECUs per tonne at today's weekly tender. French traders said.

It licensed 20,000 tonnes of non-Spanish barley at 56.37 ECUs per tonne and 25,000 tonnes of Spanish barley at 65.45 ECUs per tonne. It rejected all bids for export of West German intervention soft wheat.

Moscow ready to reschedule some debt, says Jordan

AMMAN, Aug 18, (Reuter): The Soviet Union has agreed in principle to reschedule part of Jordan's debt due for repayment this year and next, a cabinet minister said yesterday.

The rest will be settled with Jordanian exports of phosphates and cement, Minister of State for Economic Affairs Taher Al Masro told Reuters.

Jordan owes Moscow principal and interest of $190 million in 1989/90. The debt is mainly for military purchases.

Under an accord to be sealed in September, some of the payments will be rescheduled over 10 years with six years grace, said Masri, who led a Jordanian team at talks in Moscow this week.

Delay in signing is mainly to decide the volume and price of Jordanian exports in the barter portion of the deal. "Each one will have to define the items and prices and then we will go to Moscow again in September to sign the accord." Masri debt to Moscow but said it was part of a total foreign debt that reached $8.3 billion at the end of 1988, including $1.1 billion in undisbursed loans.

A Western economist said Jordan owed about 13 per cent of its foreign debt to the socialist bloc and other countries outside the Paris Club of Western creditor nations.

Pro-Western Jordan turned to Mos-

Masri refused to disclose Amman's cow for arms in 1982 buying missiles and anti-aircraft guns. They signed an air defence agreement in 1985 after Washington blocked an $1.9 billion package that included Stinger anti-aircraft missiles.

The Moscow rescheduling is much like those on which Amman put off payments on part of its more than $7 billion debt to ne Paris Club in July.

New proposals to promote joint ventures

Japan, Moscow to begin high-level business talks and the Soviet Union will start high-level business talks in Moscow Aug 23 with Japan's cooperation in development projects in Siberia high on the agenda, news reports said yester-

Ryoichi Kawai, chairman of the world's largest construction machinery maker Komatsu Ltd and leader of the Japanese delegation, suggested the Soviet Union may set forth new proposals aimed at promoting joint ventures in view of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbuchev's reform policy. Kawai, however, said Japan's economic approach to the Soviet Union has been limited because pending political issues.

Kyodo said. The territorial dispute over four Soviet-held islands north of Japan's northernmost main island of Hokkaido has kept the two nations from signing a peace treaty since the end of World War II in 1945.

The meeting, a joint session of the Japan-Soviet and Soviet-Japan Business Co-operation Committees, will be the first to be held in 18 months.

The Japanese delegation will comprise about 170 business leaders and government

The Japanese government has decided to allow foreign investors to acquire shares of KDD, former state-run international telecommunications monopoly, next April 1, the national daily Yomiuri Shimbun reported yes-

The paper said foreign acquisi-tion will be limited to about 20 per cent of the company's out-standing shares totalling about 64 million.

The company was established as a monopoly in 1953 and its constitution now bars foreigners from acquiring its shares.

The government allowed two competitors to enter the market in 1987 in line with its policy of opening the telecommunications market. One of the two rival firms is 17.7 per cent owned by Cable and Wireless of Britain while the other is owned about 10 per cent by foreign investors.

The government has already allowed foreign investors to acquire stock in former domestic telecommunication monopoly Nippon Telegraph and Telephone Corp.

Japanese farmers, wary of the expanding liberalisation of farm imports to Japan, are stepping up their efforts to promote exports and revitalise the farm industry. the National Federation of Agricultural Co-operative Associations has reported.

The federation said the government is supporting their drive by improving quarantine

The federation said regional agricultural co-operatives have launched exports of such including Hong Kong, Belgium, Canada and Singapore.

More co-operatives are expected to follow the lead, it said. We will try to reduce our production costs to promote exports of our pears, which are gaining increasing popularity overseas," an official of an Economic Federation in Chiba Prefecture (province) south of Tokyo was quoted as saying.

Japan's agricultural imports increased 50 per cent over the last three years to $27.39 billion in 1988 while exports totalled only $959 million, the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries said The Central Union of Agricultural co-operatives, Japan's largest agricultural organisation, said earlier this month it will work out a nine-year programe to improve the competitiveness of Japanese farm produce overseas to cope with the liberalisation of the domestic market.

Value of imports drops

WASHINGTON, Aug 18. (UPI): Record exports and sharply lower imports drove the United State's trade deficit down nearly $2 billion in June to a seasonally adjusted $8.17 billion, the lowest monthly shortfall in more than four years, the Commerce Department reported yester-

The department reported that the value of US goods sold abroad of reached $30.91 billion during June, breaking the previous record of $30.76 billion set in April as US companies sharply increased their foreign sales of capital goods and consumer products.

Meanwhile, the value of imports declined $1.5 billion from a record high in May to $39.08 billion, reflecting declining US purchases of foreign automobiles and automotive parts, oil, capital goods and industrial supplies and materials. The $8.17 billion trade shortfall was the lowest since a $6.8 billion

Strike hits BA flights

UK inflation drops

LONDON, Aug 18, (Agencies): British Airways cancelled more than half of its European and domestic flights today as short-haul cabin-crews went on strike over the sacking of a stewardess, a BA spokesman aid.

More than 40 flights in and our of Heathrowskirport were cancelled before 0800 GMT. All British shuttle flights were grounded until 1130 GMT and other destinations affected included Jersey, Dublin, Hamburg, Istanbul and Turin.

BA was maintaining services to major continental capitals including Paris, Rome and Madrid. Long-haul flights, including Concorde, were "Forty-seven per cent of European and domestic services are operating. We would hope and are confident of maintaining at least that level of operation," the spokesman said. He said managers and trainee staff had been brought in to replace striking crew, and staffing had been reduced to the minimum level required by Britain's Civil Aviation Authority.

Passengers were asked to telephone the airport before leaving home, and some were booked eats flights with other carriess. The situation at

British airports were "busy but not chaotic," the spokesman said.

Catering services on some flights were reduced or withdrawn.

The short-haul staff, who account for a third of British Airways' 9,000 cabin crew staff, began a 24-hour strike at 2300 GMT yesterday over the sacking of a stewardess. The BA spokesman said staff returning after the strike would face suspension unless they signed an undertaking to work normally.

"We're saying: If you go out (on strike), you're out until you agree to work normally," he said. Meanwhile, the government said today Britain's annual inflation rate fell to 8.2 per cent in July, from 8.3 per cent in June, the first decline in 19 months. The drop marked the first victory for Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson in his long-running battle against resurgent inflation. The annual inflation rate hadn't declined since January, 1988, when it stood at 3.3 per cent. The government has pushed up interest rates 10 times from a decadelow of 7.5 per cent in June 1988 to their current 14 per cent level in an effort to curb inflation. The Department of Employment said its retail price index rose 0.1 per cent in July, compared with a gain of 0.3 per cent in June.

The department said its index, which uses a January 1987 base of 100, stood at 115.5 in July, compared with 115.4 in June, and 106.7 in July The figures were slightly better than economists has been expecting.

but there was little reaction to the news in the financial markets. US imports surge

WASHINGTON, Aug 18, (AP): Imports accounted for more than half of US petroleum consumption last month, surging past the 50 per cent mark for the first time in 12 years, the American Petroleum Institute reports.

"A lot of this oil is coming from the Middle East, the unstable Middle East," said institute spokesman R.G. Ensz. "It means dollars are leaving the country to pay for this oil."

The API's monthly statistical report, released Wednesday, found oil imports accounted for 50.4 per cent of domestic consumption in July, up from 43.5 per cent in July 1988. The report said domestic deliveries of petroleum products averaged just under 17 million barrels a day, while total imports — crude oil plus petroleum products. — averaged over 8.5 million barrels.

July's total was only the fourth time ever that a monthly import figure had exceeded 50 per cent, the institute said. In March 1977 and July 1977, imports surged to 51.8 per cent of total deliveries, while in May 1977 imports reached 50.5 per cent. Ensz said the new figures indicate "we're growing more dependent on foreign oil while Congress is putting moratoria on offshore drilling. Legislation is moving through Congress, he said, that would stop drilling for oil in Alaska and off the coasts of California, western Florida, the mid-Atlantic and New England.

Hollywood's music engineer

By Vernon Scott HOLLYWOOD, (UPI): One of Hollywood's busiest music men doesn't play a note, write a song or conduct an orchestra. but he does engineer the scores of some of Hollywood's best films.

His name is Budd Carr, and it was Carr who created the musical backgrounds for Platoon, Wall Street, Salvador, Talk Radio, Hoosiers and Alien Nation. among others.

It used to be that scores for movies were left mostly in the hands of famous composer-conductors, men like Dmitri Tiomkin, Elmer Bernstein, Bronislaw Caper, and even such brilliant contemporary musicians as Henry Mancini. Although Carr has a musical background, he doesn't compose or conduct a single bar of music.

His is the unique job of conferring with directors — in his case it is most often Oscar-winner Oliver Stone - about which scenes need music, the type of music called for and then finding the right bits and pieces of songs.

Write

He also consults with composers who actually write the music to fit the action and mood of the images on the screen.

Carr compares his work with that of a detective, chasing down the right music to enhance the visual action on the

His current project is Born on the Fourth of July. Stone's new film starring Tom Cruise as a Vietnam combat soldier.

A year ago Carr began collecting 16, 90-minute audio cassettes, a collection of music from 1957 to 1972, to give Stone a selection for the score. The cassettes also gave Cruise an idea of how the time period sounded musically.

Directors, he said, are more selective now than in decades past, when almost every foot of film was accompanied by a musical sound track.

"Today there isn't as much background music as there used to be because filmmakers have changed their emphasis," said Carr, 43.

They don't make as many epic movies with wall-to-wall music, or at least a sense of wall-to-wall music as in a Lawrence of Arabia type of film. Whenever anyone moved, so did a string.

One of my dearest possessions is a leather card case given to me by my mother. It is inscribed with an anonymous quotation: "Life ain't holdin' the good cards. It's playin' a bad hand well!" I was reminded of this at a rubber bridge game in New York arranged for me by Tannah Hirsch. In that game, I held the South cards and he was North.

We reached three no trump on a fairly normal auction. Had East seen my card case, I would not have made my contract. West made the normal lead of the queen of hearts, won perforce in dummy. I had to knock out West's entry, but did not have a clue which black suit to attack. Eventually, I decided to lead a

Had East put his bad hand to good use, he would have risen with the ace of clubs and returned a heart, and the defense would have collected five tricks before I had my nine. But the defender played low. and my queen won. As a result, I decided West's entry was in spades, so I shifted the offense to that suit. West took the ace and persevered with a heart, but now it needed only routine technique to land the contract.

I ducked the jack of hearts, forcing West to abandon the suit. East won the club shift and reverted to hearts, but it was too late. I rose with the king and had nine tricks. Indeed, as the play developed, West discarded two diamonds, so I ended up with an overtrick. As ever,

Sitting in the rarified confines of one of Hollywood's most elegant hotels (Try asking a rather snobby concierge for Mr Yahoo Serious' room) in a paisley jacket over a flowered shirt. Serious munches on a Chinese chicken salad and explains the philosophical underpinnings to his choice of alter ego. He says he first began thinking about the father of relativity on a trek through the Amazon, when he came upon a native wearing an Einstein T-shirt.

"It's a love story," he says, "between two of the greatest minds of the 20th century. It's about a shy, gentle genius who doesn't carry a gun or a knife, but a musical instrument." Underneath the off-the-wall hair and clothes is a conventionally handsome, 6foot-tall, reed-thin actor who moves onscreen like a cross between Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton. But he didn't recognize his own talents, he explains, before he met Lulu Pinkus, his associate producer, friend, confidente and Mrs Yahoo Serious. It was she who recognized the potential of the pratfalls, stunts and dance movements he now performs as if they were second nature.

"Lulu is a city girl, so I was showing her a creek near my house that was flooded. I was jumping over poles and rocks and going across in lightning time. She said, 'Wow, that was incredible. It was like a Buster Keaton stunt.' Then she showed me some Keaton and Chaplin films and gave me the confidence to go out and do that sort of thing. Because I'm naturally shy."

Mitra, who is raising about 1,600 birds on a farm 320 kilometres (200 miles) southeast of Manila, said he likes nothing more than to watch his prize roosters battle their opponents. "If it's my bird, I enjoy watching it," Mitra said.

Another prominent aficionado is Rep. Jose Cojuangco, brother of President Corazon Aquino. Cojuangco attended a cockfight this month at his sugar plantation in which bets ranged up to 300,000 pesos ($14,200) a fight, the Philippine Daily Inquirer

Major cockfights are held Sundays and public holidays at about 500 large arenas, or "cockpits" nationwide. Small-scale fights are held every day on street corners and in vacant lots.

Occasionally, plush hotels sponsor cockfights in their ballrooms for the benefit of tourists.

Cockfighting provides a livelihood for thousands of people. Vicente Garrido, 69, said he sent his daughter to medical school on earnings as a "kristo," the person who takes bets during cockfights.

"Kristos" usually earn their money from the knowing the ins and outs of cocklighting. I know of Speciators begin shouting as or no other profession and I'm not looking for one. Garrido said.

Cocklights are brief and bloody.

Two fighting birds, with razor-sharp blades affixed to their legs, attack one another until only one is left alive.

In the occasional instance in which both roosters are still alive after 10 minutes, the bout is traditionally declared a draw.

Cheating, such as drugging a bird or breaking one of its legs before a fight, is rare. Offenders usually are beaten in public.

Roosters are matched against those of comparable weights. Some "cockpits" offer special matches called "carambola," where five of more birds are put in the ring at the same time to fight it out until only one remains.

Betting is done by hand signals, and bets are paid immediately after each fight. Before the roosters are

"My mother sold foodstuffs inside a cockpit near released for combat, the arena falls silent as spec-advantage. Every cockfighter has his own method of training his birds. Some owners raise their birds with ordinary chicken mash, while other birds receive special diets of feeds made up of sorghum, wheat, peas and corn More affluent owners even add dog food or ground meat, milk, apples and fresh green vegeta-bles. Some birds are also given vitamins.

Some cocklighters look at a rooster's legs and read" the scales to determine a winner. Others check the colour of the feathers as a sign of combativeness.

A full-grown rooster sells for about $14 but prizefighters can fetch prices of about $230 apiece. Imported gamebirds, usually from the United States, cost about $700. Most of the imported birds are used only for breeding to improve the stock.

Music videos

Pogues-live: Led by Shane MacGowan, the singer-songwriter with perhaps the worst and the least teeth in show business, the Pogues are considered one of the best live acts in the UK. Eight people who play traditional Irish music with all the best twe acts in the UK. Fight people who play traditional Irish music with all the fire and fury of punk. They use traditional Irish instruments of tin-whistles, accordion, fiddles and hands-drums as well as the more usual guitar and bass and set it all to a fiery mix of Irish and punk music. The Pogues' live set in usually a mixture of songs that are written by Shane — mostly stories of Irishmen in London where he grew up — and they stand alongside their treasured folk classics, some of which are centuries old.

The video concert was filmed on March 17, 1988, St Patrick's Night at the Town and Country. The Pogues step onstage to loud cheers from the capacity crowd and begin with a rousing stomping number which immediately provokes a storm of dancing and leaping. The music fiesta has begun. A couple of songs later, guest Kirsty MacColl joins Shane to duet on 'Fairytale of New York'. By now the band has loosened up, no doubt helped by the glasses or bottles of the 'demon-brew' that mysteriously pops up onstage. Apart from being a great live group, the Pogues have also earned themselves the reputation of being the hardest drinking act in the country. Between each song, we are taken backstage where Joe Strummer, ex-The Clash, gives his expert opinions on the musical where Joe Strummer, ex-The Clash, gives his expert opinions on the management abilities of the band members. Later, he joins the band onstage to perform "London Calling' the Clash's classic foot stomper. Other guest artistes including Lynval Golding and After-Tonight also turn up and at the show's end the London-Irish Hillbillies have turned the Town and Country into an ecstatic, what makes the Pogues a great live group is their refreshing, down-to-earth, ordinary-folk image. There is no unnecessary posturing or starry-airs from the band members. There's no laser lights or stage effects which is the norm of so many of the contemporary pop groups. Just an ordinary rock 'n' roll band playing the music that they love best.

The lively music and party atmosphere of this video concert makes you wish you were part of the audience who obviously had the time of their lives.

Recommended to fans of both country-folk and pop music. Running time 60 mts. approx.

Depeche Mode 101: IS a film about 4 young Englishmen. Friends who grew up together to form one of the most successful new age electronic pop groups of the 80's — Depeche Mode.

Depeche Mode are decidedly not your ordinary run-of-the-mill rock band.

They have no written contract with their record company (Indie label 'mute'). Just a hand-shake agreement. The band has no manager. They handle the job themselves. They are a synthesizer band in every sense of the word, i.e. they use no guitars and haven't got a drummer. Just 3 keyboards, a vocal-microphone and a tape-recorder. The group projects no real image, which is probably the reason why they get off causing a controversy over the lyrics of some songs. example Master and Servant that uses' sexual angles in a specific way', or Blasphemous Rumours which is about a girl who attempted suicide by slashing plane on American soil we follow Depeche Mode from city to city as they play live, culminating in their final concert (the 101st) at the Rose Bowl Stadium in Pasadena, California, where seventy thousand people have gathered to watch a spectacle of music and lights performed by four friends using synthesizers and nothing much else — except talent. Also, through interviews, rehearsals and conversation we gain some fascinating insights on the lives of the musicians and

The film itself is about their '88 American tour. From the touch down of their Depeche Mode are Andrew Fletcher, Alan Wilder, vocalist David Gohan and main songwriter Martin Gore. Running time 117 mts.

Gerhard Marcks' sculpture "Der Rufer" is here seen hanging on crane ropes before being put in position close to the Brandenburg Gate in West Berlin. It is meant to emphasise Berliners' wish for the removal of the Wall, thrown up by the GDR.

FAMILY DOCTOR By DR ALLAN BRUCKHEIM

QUESTION: I'm basically a thin person, but I have cellulite on my hips and thighs. Is there anything special I can do to get rid of this? Can you explain what cellulite is?

ANSWER: Cellulite is really no different from regular fat. It is a word used to describe the impy orange peel appearance of at that most frequently appears on women, mainly on their hips, thighs and buttocks. Researchers have compared fat biopsies taken from people with cellulite deposit areas with fat taken from people free of cellulite. They found that the fat is essentially the same. The ripple-like appearance is thought to be the result of connective tissue that envelopes each fat cell and separates the cells into compartments. These cells bulge as more fat is stored in them, due to weight

Although some men are afflicted with cell lite, more women develop the problem because their outer layer of skin is thinner and female areas of fat are larger and more rounded.

If you are thin, but have patches of cellulite in the common areas, then it will be tough, if not almost impossible, to get rid of

it. Unfortunately, fat does not always accumulate evenly over the entire body, but in areas of high concentrations in some anatomical areas. There is no such thing as spot reduction, and I advise you against believing any advertisements that promise

In reality, exercise, along with a low-calorie diet will help take fat off from all areas of your body, and may be of some help. Exercising the areas where you have cellulite will tone the underlying muscles, but it won't necessarily remove fat from that area of the body.

QUESTION: I've been having chest pains on and off for the past year. My doctor has done test after test to find out if I was going to have a heart attack, but he found no cardiac origin for my problem. After more testing, he told me I have an esophageal spasm, and this was causing the chest pain. Does this make any sense to you?

ANSWER: Yes, it does, although the problem is not a common one. Esophageal spasm has been documented as the cause of a typical chest pain in a number of patients. The pain is a typical because is produces no characteristic pain, and its symptoms vary far more than heart problems, such as Esophageal pain is often described by patients as a "pressure," "construction," or a "burning sensation." The attacks are often related to eating. Doctors are not 100 per cent sure of why abnormal contractions in the body of the esophagus produce chest

The best way for a doctor to treat the problem is with reassurance that the cause of your pain is not life-threatening. Various drugs have been used to treat the pain, such as calcium-channel blockers, hydralazine, antacids or nitrates, but the results have been less than dramatic. An operation which surgically dissects the muscle of the esophagus is helpful to a very limited number of patients with this condition.

You may find that the knowledge of the nature of the problem can reduce your own natural anxiety about such pain and may reduce the furequency of the attacks. Be careful in your use of pain medication, though; it's easy to get hooked in situations such as yours.

Germans and Australians reach final many and Australia will meet in the final of the limior Hockey World Cup tomorrow after yes-terday's high-scoring semifinal encounters with South Korea and Pakistan respectively.

Australia edged out the favourites Pakistan 4-3 and the West Germans thrashed the Kopeans 6-2.

Australia were given a good start when Stephen Davies scored with a reverse flick in the Tariq Sheikh and Qamar Ibrahim, with a penalty corner, replied to give Pakistan a 2-1 lead at halftime but the Australians fought back superbly in the second half.

Chris Taylor levelled after 42 minutes and Davies then scored a brilliant solo goal two minutes later to give his side the lead. Greg Corbit added a fourth in the 61st minute before minute from time.

The highly-organised West Germans never looked like losing from the moment Frederick Ness converted a penalty corner in the 27th minute. Michale Waldhouser scored a second four minutes later and Andre Schiefer's 34th minute goal gave them a comfortable 3-0 half-

McEnroe tames Reneberg

MONTREAL, Aug 18, (Reuter): Top seed Ivan Lendl edged past Jimmy Arias, and second-seeded John McEnroe outduelled Richey Reneberg to reach the quarterfinals of the $742.500

Canadian Open tennis cham-pionships yesterday.

Lendi hardiy playing up to his world number one status, beat 16th seed Arias 3-6 6-1 6-4, while McEnroe, despite his usual quota of on-court complaints, beat 15th-seeded Reneberg 6-37-

Lendl, playing in his first tour-nament since Wimbledon, expected trouble with his game this week — and he has had it.

There were some patches of good form in the second set, but overall, Lendi had problems. He served poorly — totalling 10 double-faults — and his lethal forehand consistently sprayed long past the baseline.

"I played well for a longer spell than I did yesterday, but when I played bad it was pretty bad," said Lendl, the defending champion. "When you haven't played matches it shows and luckily sometimes your instinct takes

Mandlikova and Hanika in last eight

MAHWAH, N.J., Aug 18, (Reuter): Hana Mandlikova and Sylvia Han-ika survived the wave of upsets that have struck the $200,000 Jersey Classic tennis tournament by scoring vicries yesterday to reach the quarterfinals.

Mandikova, the Czechoslovakborn Australian, advanced to a meeting against top-seeded defending champion Steffi Graf by scoring a 6-0 7-6 (7-3) win over US qualifier Andrea Leand.

The fifth-seeded Mandlikova, the 1985 US Open champion, won 10 of the first 11 games before Leand stormed back to force a tiebreak. "I became a little passive instead of keeping the pressure on," said Man-dlikova, who won this tournament in Britain and Ireland ecore historic win

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug 18, (Reuter): James Milligan chipped in from 50 feet on the 17th hole to help amateur golfers from Britain and Ireland hold off their American rivals yesterday and complete an historic 12-1/ 2 to 11-1 2 victory in the Walker Cup competition.

The triumph at Peachtree Golf Club was the first Walker Cup win for Britain Ireland on US soil and marked the first time Britain/Ireland has held all three golf trophies - Ryder Cup (men's professionals with Europe), Curtis Cup (amateur women) and now Walker Cup — at

It was also the first British-Irish win in the series since 1971 and only their third in 32 competitions since the Walker Cup began in 1922. The visitors dominated the first three rounds of the two-day event but were nearly overtaken in the final afternoon singles as the American team won five of eight matches. Milligan, winner of the 1988 Scottish amateur, clinched the victory in the final match by rebounding from a three-stroke deficit on the 10th hole to halve against American Jay Sigel.

It was the third even match of the afternoon and gave the visitors the half-point they needed to win.

The hosts trailed 11-5 going into the final round but would have tied Britain, Ireland had Milligan lost final match. Milligan's chip shot at the par-five 17 gave him a birdle and put him level with Sigel.

"I was just trying to hit it over the Bermuda rough. I was just trying to make a five," Milligan said.

Geoffrey Marks, non-playing captain for Britain/Ireland, said he had counselled Milligan to stay calm on "what was to be the most important shot of his life."

avenge defeat

AMSTELVEEN, Netherlands, Aug 18, (Reuter): A century by opener John Stephenson paved the way for England to avenge Wednesday's shock defeat by the Netherlands when the two teams met again in a 55over match yesterday. The young Essex batsman figured in an opening partnership of 112 with Somerset's Peter Roebuck, captain-

Record British deal

United sold for £20m

MANCHESTER, England, Aug 18, (Reuter): Manchester United, one of the most famous soccer clubs in the world, was sold in a surprise deal worth over £20 million ($31 million) — a record for a British club - today.

A consortium led by Isle of Man-based businessman Michael Knighton paid United chairman Martin Edwards £10.08 million ($15.8 million) for his controlling interest in the English First Division club.

The buyers said up to £10 million ($15.6 million) would be spent on redeveloping the club's famous Old Trafford ground Edwards, chairman for nine and a half-years, will stay on as vice-chairman and chief executive.

His family has been in control at Old Trafford since 1965 when Louis Edwards became chairman during Matt Busby's successful reign as manager.

But since Martin Edwards took over after his father's death in 1980, United's supporters have been increasingly disappointed by their side's lack of success. The club have not won the League championship since 1967.

Knighton, 37, a would-be professional footballer himself until he suffered a serious thigh injury as a jumor with Coventry City, promised to give manager Alex Ferguson and the team his

France surprise Sweden

MALMO, Sweden, Aug 18, (Reuter): Strikers Jean Pierre Papin and Eric Cantona scored two goals apiece to give France a 4-2 win over Sweden in a soccer friendly on Wednesday.

Marseille marksman Papin broke the 2-2 deadlock seven minutes from time when he blasted a right-wing cross from Cantona past Swedish goalkeeper Thomas Ravelli.

Cantona made certain of victory by adding the fourth goal for France from short range two minutes later.

It was a sweet triumph for French manager Michel Platini and his fresh crop of talent are out of the running for ned year's World Cup finals after painful defeats by Yugoslavia and Scotland.

For the Swedes, facing England on September 6 in a vital World Cup qualifier, it was a dress rehearsal which started well but went wrong.

Swedish midfielder Jones Ic. Thern, who recently signed for Portugal's Benfica, opened the scoring in the fifth minute with a searing blast from 20 metres into the top left corner of goalkeeper Joel Bats's net.

Australia, China and Canada each won one event in the competition at the 50-metre Yoyogi National Olympic swimming pool.

American Janet Evans, the Seoul Olympic triple gold medallist, easily won the 400-metre individual medle in 4:39.38, a new meet record.

Evans broke the old mark of 4:44.45 set by American compatriot Erika Hansen in 1985. She moved into the front after 50 metres and gradually increased her lead, winning about 10 metres ahead of Lin Li of China, who finished second with a time of 4:45.69. Australian Donna Procter came in third in 4-45.60.

China's Zhuan Yong came from behind to win the 100-metre freestyle with a time of 55.68. American Jenny Thompson, who led for the first half, finished second in 55:84. Zhuan and Thompson both smashed the meet record of 55.86 set by Dara Torres of the United States in 1987.

Nicole Haislett of the United States placed third in 55.99.

Canadian Keltie Duggan led all the way and won the 100-metre breaststroke in 1:09.79, edging American Tracey McFarlane, who was clocked 1:09.81. Both beat the previous meet record of 1:09.92, set by Allison Highson of Canada in 1987.
